Blasting Main Concern at Plant Hearing; City to Gain by State Housing Recount

Spending For Homes Is Favored

Local Program Is Aided by Result

Impetus has been added to the program for more housing downtown by announcement today that the State Board of Canvassers Tuesday confirmed that the proposition for a 50-million-dollar housing outlay was approved by the voters on November 8.

Mayor Frederick H. Stang and George E. Yerry Jr., chairman of the Kingston Housing Authority welcomed the news today reported from Albany by the Associated Press.

THE OFFICIAL result on the housing proposition reversed the immediate and post-election returns, which had it defeated by about 22,400 votes.

The board said the official figures would be announced later. A recent unofficial count showed that the proposition carried by about 24,000 votes. The gain was attributed to the correction of tabulating errors.

Mayor Stang said, "it is gratifying to hear this news. It will facilitate and expedite the plans the administration has for improved housing in Kingston.

THE MAYOR has scheduled an unofficial conference December 20 with members of the Common Council relative to low cost housing here, mainly in the downtown area.

Areas in the Sixth ward were cleared for substandard dwellings in compliance with the agreement for better housing here, which brought about Colonial Gardens on Flatbush avenue, a state housing project for more than 90 families.

Aldermen serving at present and new ones elected to take office in January will be invited to the meeting. It has been arranged for officials only.

Mayor Stang said passage of the 50-million-dollar housing outlay "will no doubt lend a great deal of weight in evaluating the whole proposition locally."

CHAIRMAN YERRY of the Housing Authority said, "We are glad the housing proposition passed. It will be of great value in rehabilitating downtown.

"The 50-million-dollar expenditure will mean better homes for medium income families."

The board of canvassers in Albany reported also that five of the 10 proposed constitutional amendments had been approved and five rejected.

Sidney Squire, executive deputy to the secretary of state, according to the Associated Press, said the figures were delayed for a tabulation of 13 votes in the town of Hunter, Greene county, which had been reported late.

THE HOUSING proposition authorizes the state to loan 50 million dollars to finance housing for middle-income families.

Amendments approved will:

Increase from 25 to 34 million dollars the maximum the state may pay in low-rent housing subsidies in one year.

Enable the Legislature to extend voting and absentee registration priviliges to the sick and disabled and absentee registration privileges to persons out of the state on registration day.

AUTHORIZE THE Legislature to assign the duties of the state equalization board to the comptroller.

Allow the Legislature to authorize a city to contract for construction of more sewage facilities than it needs and to sell the service to neighboring communities.

Forbid judges in counties of 120,000 population or greater, except for police justices and justices of the peace, from running for or holding any public office except judicial.

THE REJECTED amendments would have:

Allowed the governor to appoint a temporary judge to sit in a county court outside New York city in the event the regular judge was unable to do so because of illness or disability.

Permitted the governor to appoint temporary judges to state Supreme Court and General Sessions Court in Manhattan, to County Courts in Kings, Queens, Bronx and Richmond and to the New York City Court to replace sick and disabled jurists.

Exempted from debt limits those contracted, past and fu-

Span, 9W, R 32 Link Requested

A formal request will be made to the state public works department for construction of about a mile of road to connect Route 9W with the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge approach at Route 32, as a result of action taken by the New York State Bridge Authority at a meeting here yesterday.

THE AUTHORITY also authorized planning and construction of structures to house an office, shop and garage and toll plaza on the west approach, voted to advertise for bids to install toll equipment, and decided in favor of widening the east approach of the Mid-Hudson Bridge at Poughkeepsie.

An agreement was authorized for seismic explorations of the river bottom at the proposed site of the Newburgh-Beacon bridge. This is to be done by the Gahagan Construction Corp., of New York at an estimated cost of $15,000. This work will precede actual drill tests.

THE CONNECTING of Routes 32 and 9W at the west approach of the Kingston - Rhinecliff bridge would cost an estimated $1,000,000. The terrain in the area is rough and the project will require considerable cutting through rock.

Widening of the Poughkeepsie bridge on the south side of its east approach will cost an estimated $200,000.

It is expected that construction of the strip of road between Route 32 and 9W will start as soon as possible next year because the bridge is due to be finished next November.

Magistrate Shifted

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Magistrate Charles Solomon, whose surprise ruling in court this week threatened to halt collection of fines from millions of parking rule violators, now has been told to go park elsewhere himself. Because of his "unrealistic attitude toward parking offenders" he will be shifted from service in the traffic courts to other benches on which the city's magistrates preside. Sources close to Chief Magistrate John M. Murtagh — who launched a stepped-up campaign two years ago against "scofflaws" who ignore traffic tickets—said Murtagh ordered that Solomon be given no more assignments in traffic courts after tomorrow.

U.S. Blasts Reds' Veto Of Japan

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—The United States today denounced the Soviet veto of Japan's bid for United Nations membership as a "glaring injustice," and called for Russia to reverse its stand promptly.

A State Department spokesman said the Soviets had engaged in a "cynical action" to preserve a "bargaining pawn" in their negotiations with Japan over a peace settlement.

RUSSIA ACCEPTED 16 countries for UN membership yesterday but blackballed Japan.

In accepting the 16, the Soviet Union reversed an earlier policy by which it vetoed all free nations proposed as new UN members because Nationalist China had vetoed Outer Mongolia.

In pulling off the dramatic switch yesterday, the Soviets proposed that both Outer Mongolia and Japan be temporarily dropped from the package deal. U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge put in an amendment in the Security Council at New York to add Japan to the list for admission. Soviet Ambassador Arkady Sobolev vetoed this.

Lodge then proposed a resolution, still pending, that the Security Council go on record as favoring Japan's admittance next year.

STATE DEPARTMENT Press Officer Lincoln White told reporters the United States government still hopes the Soviet Union will "withdraw its veto of Japan" before the end of the present UN Assembly ses-

$100,000 Is Bonus Paid At Hercules

The more than 800 employes of Hercules Powder Co. today received approximately $100,000 as a seasonal bonus according to Edmund P. Rochford, works manager of the Port Ewen plant.

Along with the large amount of money given at an appropriate time for boliday shopping went messages of congratulation for the safety record at the explosives firm and season's greetings.

Mr. Rochford said that the custom of paying bonuses has extended over a period of some 19 years.

THE HERCULES Port Ewen plant has operated 467 days without a tabulatable work injury, according to George R. Mustaparta, safety supervisor.

Following is a telegram to the plant from C. T. Butler, director of operations of the explosives department, Wilmington, Del.

"CONGRATULATIONS to Port Ewen employes for working 2 million hours without a lost time injury. It took real teamwork to establish this fine record and your outstanding performance is a source of inspiration to everyone."

Mr. Mustaparta said "the Port Ewen plant has to go only to January 21, 1956, to be eligible for the director of operations safety award.

Two million man hours is not a record for Port Ewen, he added. December 7, 1942 to February 22, 1944 a record of over 2½ million was made.

Mr. Rochford and E. K. Lefren, assistant works manager, said "we feel that if employes use the care they have in the past year we can establish a new record."

PRESIDENT Albert E. Forster of Hercules sent this telegram from Wilmington, Del.

"To all employes as the holiday season arises: It is my sincere wish that the yuletide brings you and each member of your family great blessings. May you store up enough richness to last for the year ahead."

Indications IBM Will Take Over Two Places

New Part Of Thruway Is Opened

Tarrytown, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—In stinging cold weather, Gov. Averell Harriman today formally opened a new 28-mile segment of the New York State Thruway, including a giant span across the Hudson river.

Brief ceremonies were held at both ends of the big bridge, here and across the river at South Nyack, and the governor led a 400-car motorcade across the span.

SOME 5,000 persons attended the event at South Nyack and about 10,000 gathered here.

As the governor's party crossed the bridge, he was given a 17-gun salute from a destroyer in the river below.

At the same time a boat from Yonkers Ferry Line — whose cross-river business a few miles south may be reduced by the bridge's opening—stemmed up to the bridge with a big sign saying:

"Best Wishes, Yonkers Ferry."

Gov. Harriman spoke briefly at both gatherings. His first appearance at South Nyack was delayed about 30 minutes because a snowstorm upstate slowed his car trip.

The newly completed stretch of the Thruway extends from Suffern in Rockland county across the river into Yonkers in Westchester county.

The first accident on the bridge occurred today. Two automobiles en route from Tarrytown to join the motorcade skidded on the ice on the center span at 9:40 a. m. Both cars were damaged, but no one was in-

Palmer New Head Of County Agents

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—Election of William Palmer of Kingston to succeed William Barry of Hudson as president of the New York Association of County Agricultural Agents was announced today.

Other officers elected during a meeting here were James Foster, Syracuse, vice president, and Herbert Johnson, Rochester, secretary-treasurer.

2 Property Options Are Noted Here

A proposed $100,000 addition to the Governor Clinton Market, 773 Broadway, involving real estate transactions at 765-771 Broadway and 7 St. James street, were reported unofficially today.

It is understood that Louis Provenzano, operator of The Hofbrau, 9 St. James street, and John DeGasperis, owner of the food market, had acquired options on property in that area for the building program.

REPORTS indicated that the food market would utilize the lower floor of the Hofbrau building for the addition while Mr. Provenzano would open a restaurant in that section of the building located at the corner of Broadway and St. James street.

It was also reported that Steve's Barber Shop, 7 St. James street, operated by Stephen Caterino, was involved in the transaction but would remain at its present location.

Mr. DeGasperis was unavailable for comment and Mr. Provenzano said it was possible they could jointly make an announcement "within a couple days."

A SECOND report, talked about in real estate rumors, today, that Leherb's Restaurant, 240 Boulevard, would be sold was denied by Leo Hayman, who with Herbert J. Middagh own and operate the restaurant.

Mr. Hayman said they "have no intentions of moving."

Old Barrel Plant, Garage Uptown Listed as Sites

Recent developments indicate that International Business Machines Corporation will have two additional locations in Kingston, one on North Front street and the other on Bruyn avenue, near Cornell street.

At a meeting of the Kingston Zoning Board Wednesday night in the city hall there was no opposition to an application by the firm to use an automobile show room and garage for IBM purposes.

A RELIABLE SOURCE today said IBM had applied for a lease on the former barrel factory, adjacent to the Rupp Trucking Co. freight terminal on Bruyn avenue.

It is understood that the old cooperage plant is to be used for storage purposes by the business machines manufacturers over a period of five years. The building has 22,000 square feet of space.

CARPENTERS have been working on the building, owned by the Rupp Company, for some time, installing new flooring and replacing windows, it was reported.

J. H. McCann Jr., was the attorney appearing last night in behalf of the IBM application. It was explained that IBM would use space in the former Wiltwyck Motors building to house engineering and designing units, offices, and to use the garage space for sub-assembly purposes.

It was indicated that about 40 persons would be employed and an estimated $30,000 would be spent to improve the property. Show rooms in the building would be used for IBM educational exhibits.

NO OPPOSITION was expected to arise, it was indicated, as long as the building remained generally commercial in character. Attorney Arthur E. Davis Jr., appeared for area property owners, and among those who spoke were Adrian Kaplan, and Raymond E. Kraft.

The board indicated that only a statement of consent from area property holders would be

Economic Advantages Stressed

Ordinance Asked If Firm Moves In

Most of 75 persons at a hearing last night on rezoning of the Steep Rocks area of the city for operation of a cement plant indicated they were in favor of the new industry.

SOME APPEARED concerned over possible neighborhood inconvenience such as blasting and dust, but all were assured by the experts present, and by those who had seen a similar plant in Detroit, that it would be cleanly operated and blasting would be properly regulated.

The hearing, on application of the Strelene Realty Corp., which is interested in building a $10,000,000 plant here, was conducted by Alderman Abram D. Relyea, chairman of the Common Council's laws and rules committee, in the city court room, city hall.

TWO ALDERMEN on the committee indicated they would prefer an ordinance strictly regulating blasting before they would vote on the proposal, and spokesmen for the company said it would go along with all such regulations.

Members of the committee present were Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, and Aldermen Edwin Radel and William K. Bodenweber. The latter two indicated they were definitely in favor of the regulating ordinance.

THE MAJORITY of those who spoke were definitely in favor of bringing the plant to the city and those who spoke otherwise indicated no direct opposition, but were concerned with possible effects of the plant in the surrounding downtown area.

Representatives of several trade unions spoke in favor of bringing the plant to the city, and Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce said he hopes the laws and rules committee would report favorably on the application.

George E. Yerry, Jr., of the Hudson Valley Council of Carpenters, stressed that laborers and skilled workmen were home owners and taxpayers in the city and vicinity, and he asked that their interests be considered. It might be a welcome change, he noted, if more local industries employed men so that the women could stay home.

OTHERS representing labor groups were: Stephen Gill, secretary-treasurer of the Ulster County Building Trades and Painters; Thomas J. Mitchell, business manager of Electricians Union, Local 645; August Parker, Laborers Local 715; Joseph Verdi, Local 99, Roofers; Martin Oberkerch, Plumbers Local 223, Albert Melville, representing Samuel Doyle, Iron Workers Local 417; George Nagy, Bricklayers Local 14, and Edward Salch, Sheet metal Workers Local 38.

Attorney Abraham Streifer, appeared as the local representative of the Strelene Realty Corp., with Frank Campochiaro as his associate, and the New York representatives of the applicant were attorneys Jacob and Aaron Gutstein.

WALT DUNHAM, of Kingston, in explaining the blasting technique, said the blasting schedule would be regular and on a small scale each time so that no heavy blast loads would be necessary. The area was largely limestone, which is not hard to blast, he said.

Attorney Streifer and others who had been on the recent inspection tour of the Detroit plant of the Peerless Cement Co., reported the plant as thoroughly modern and clean, and Fifth Ward Alderman Samuel Perry, who was also on the trip said that 200 turkey dinners were served at the Detroit plant near a point where the

East Kingston Home Burns While Ricks Family Is Away

A six-room East Kingston home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ricks and their five children was badly damaged by fire early Wednesday night when a glass jug of kerosene on the stove apparently exploded, it was reported this morning by Fire Chief James Costello of the East Kingston Fire Company.

No one was in the home located on Railroad avenue, at the time, Chief Costello said. One of the boys, about 14 years of age, had left the house at the time to fetch a pail of water from a well located about a hundred feet from the dwelling.

The boy ran to the home of a neighbor who called Chief Costello. The fire department fought the blaze and managed to bring it under control before the house could be destroyed. The chief said it had been badly damaged, and will need considerable work before it can be occupied again.

The Ricks family spent the night with friends on Gage street in Kingston, it was reported. They could not be reached this morning. Chief Costello said he understood there were five children, ranging in age from 4½ to 14.

Most of the furniture was removed from the house before it could be damaged. The fire apparently started on the kerosene cook stove in the kitchen.

Chief Costello said the home, owned by Brigham Bros., was particularly difficult for firemen to handle because the wooden shingles had been patched with heavy tin.

Part of the roof burned, some

Father Hearon Is Made Monsignor; Served in Ulster

The Rev. James P. Hearon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Poughkeepsie, formerly of Ulster county, has been made a monsignor of the Roman Catholic Church, according to a report published in The Poughkeepsie New Yorker Wednesday.

Father Hearon, who at one time served as priest of St. John's Church, Stony Hollow, was designated a domestic prelate by Pope Pius XII. Notice of his elevation came from Francis Cardinal Spellman of the New York archdiocese.

While Father Hearon became a monsignor with the receipt of the notice from Cardinal Spellman, his investiture will not

Volunteer Fire Police Give Approval to Incorporation

Final action was taken Wednesday night in Highland by members of the Volunteer Fire Police Association of Ulster County toward incorporation. The group was addressed by Richard Lent, New Paltz attorney and members of the association, and after a discussion on the adoption of the corporation papers which were read for the third time, the proposal was unanimously approved. The association will be known as the Volunteer Fire Police Association of Ulster County, Inc.

President Alvin Beatty presided at the meeting held in the Highland Hose Company Firehouse. The men were welcomed by Fire Chief Maynard of Highland.

A roll call showed 65 present. By vote 12 new members were received from Marlborough, five from Napanoch and three from Ulster Hose Company No. 5, making a total membership in the county of 174.

A report on the fire school was read by President Beatty and a communication from the Fire Service in Albany was received. If the board of supervisors grants permission for use of a room in the county court house the school will start in April. A report on this will be given at the February meeting.

Secretary Arthur Rice reported he had written the Commis-

Taxpayers Claim Rush For Help With Schools

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—A taxpayers group declared today that taxpayers were being "rushed along on a wave of hysteria" to support federal and state programs for aid to schools running into the billions of dollars.

The Citizens Public Expenditures Survey Inc. said this was being done although the education problem "has been neither located nor defined."

It is impossible to determine the need for such programs, the organization said, until problems have been pinpointed in individual school districts in the state and across the nation.

The survey said in a statement that the true picture of the problem was not shown by statewide and nationwide grand totals on the number of children soon to be in school and the number of pupils now on double or triple sessions or in makeshift facilities.

"The real truth," the survey said, "is that such conditions are not typical of all school districts or even of a great proportion of the school districts." The organization added:

"And yet taxpayers are being rushed along on a wave of hysteria to provide state-aid programs costing hundreds of millions of dollars and federal-aid programs in billion-dollar amounts for solution of a problem which has been neither located nor defined."

The survey said that 686 of the 1,980 school districts in the state were not operating schools this year because they did not have enough school-age pupils. Such districts found it more economical to contract with other districts to handle their pupils, the survey reported.

The organization contended also that the number of school-age children in most cities of the state now was less than the number in 1934-35.

"This does not mean these cities have no school-building needs," the survey said. "It does prove that the . . . problem can be defined only in terms of individual districts and not in terms of mass totals for the state."

The survey asserted that taxpayers "are being bombarded with generalized statements about school needs designed to appeal more to their emotions than to their reason."

GM Is Charged With False Advertising About Parts

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—General Motors Corp. has been charged by the government with falsely advertising that "genuine Chevrolet" replacement parts are better than parts competitors sell without the "genuine" label.

GM had no immediate comment on the complaint, issued yesterday by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

FTC said GM buys many Chevrolet parts from other manufacturers, some of whom design the parts themselves and sell to others besides GM.

These parts, said FTC, "are at least equal in all material respects" to those GM sells, but GM advertises the parts it buys as "genuine" with the implication that all others are not as good.

The federal agency accused GM of representing that the Chevrolet parts it distributes are designed and manufactured exclusively for GM. It called this "false, misleading and deceptive" and said GM's claims "divert business from competitors to their injury and the injury of the public, in violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act."

FTC said its complaint "had nothing to do with" the recent hearings on GM held by a Senate antitrust subcommittee headed by Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.).

President Harlow Curtice and other GM officials testified they are not trying to squeeze out smaller firms in replacement parts for GM cars. They said GM now sells half of all new cars and trucks but has only 20 per cent of the parts business, so the company naturally wants to capture a bigger share of the parts market.

GM has 30 days to file an answer to the FTC complaint. A hearing before an FTC examiner was set for Feb. 14 in Detroit.

Fruit Diseases, Sprays, Insects Growers' Topics

Growers and interested visitors from all over the state and from points as far away as Canada, Wisconsin and the Carolinas poured into the state armory Wednesday to attend the 101st Eastern Meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society.

They found practically all leading firms displaying new orchard sprayers, tractors, machinery, spray materials, fruit packages, nursery stock, seeds, insecticides, fungicides, tools, irrigation equipment, etc.

They paused with interest before interesting and informative educational exhibits prepared by the College of Agriculture, the State Experiment Station and the Poughkeepsie Laboratory. Experts were present to explain the exhibits.

Yesterday morning the 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America apple judging and identification and the apple disease and insect identification contests were held in the garage adjoining the large armory drill hall. Members of the FFA also competed in a grading contest. No results were immediately available.

A 4-H Club pie-baking contest was held this morning—the apple pie contest at 10 a. m. and the contest in other pies at 10:45 a. m. There were also 13 other apple pie demonstrations. Eleven club members were scheduled to compete in the apple pie contest and 10 in the contest for other pies.

Lunches are served in the basement of the armory by units of the 156th Field Artillery Armored Battalion, New York National Guard, which has headquarters in the armory.

Throughout the day speakers held forth in the gymnasium on subjects vital to growers: Report on Quality of Apples Being Sold in Our Stores, Joe Firth, De-

Mr. Rochford and E. K. Lefren, assistant works manager, said "we feel that if employes use the care they have in the past year we can establish a new record."

PRESIDENT Albert E. Forster of Hercules sent this telegram from Wilmington, Del.

"To all employes as the holiday season arises: It is my sincere wish that the yuletide brings you and each member of your family great blessings. May you store up enough richness to last for the year ahead."

Indications IBM Will Take Over Two Places

New Part OfThruway Is Opened

Tarrytown, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—In stinging cold weather, Gov. Averell Harriman today formally opened a new 28-mile segment of the New York State Thruway, including a giant span across the Hudson river.

Brief ceremonies were held at both ends of the big bridge, here and across the river at South Nyack, and the governor led a 400-car motorcade across the span.

SOME 5,000 persons attended the event at South Nyack and about 10,000 gathered here.

As the governor's party crossed the bridge, he was given a 17-gun salute from a destroyer in the river below.

At the same time a boat from Yonkers Ferry Line — whose cross-river business a few miles south may be reduced by the bridge's opening—stemmed up to the bridge with a big sign saying:

"Best Wishes, Yonkers Ferry."

Gov. Harriman spoke briefly at both gatherings. His first appearance at South Nyack was delayed about 30 minutes because a snowstorm upstate slowed his car trip.

The newly completed stretch of the Thruway extends from Suffern in Rockland county across the river into Yonkers in Westchester county.

The first accident on the bridge occurred today. Two automobiles en route from Tarrytown to join the motorcade skidded on the ice on the center span at 9:40 a. m. Both cars were damaged, but no one was in-

Palmer New Head Of County Agents

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—Election of William Palmer of Kingston to succeed William Barry of Hudson as president of the New York Association of County Agricultural Agents was announced today.

Other officers elected during a meeting here were James Foster, Syracuse, vice president, and Herbert Johnson, Rochester, secretary-treasurer.

2 Property Options Are Noted Here

A proposed $100,000 addition to the Governor Clinton Market, 773 Broadway, involving real estate transactions at 765-771 Broadway and 7 St. James street, were reported unofficially today.

It is understood that Louis Provenzano, operator of The Hofbrau, 9 St. James street, and John DeGasperis, owner of the food market, had acquired options on property in that area for the building program.

REPORTS indicated that the food market would utilize the lower floor of the Hofbrau building for the addition while Mr. Provenzano would open a restaurant in that section of the building located at the corner of Broadway and St. James street.

It was also reported that Steve's Barber Shop, 7 St. James street, operated by Stephen Caterino, was involved in the transaction but would remain at its present location.

Mr. DeGasperis was unavailable for comment and Mr. Provenzano said it was possible they could jointly make an announcement "within a couple days."

A SECOND report, talked about in real estate rumors, today, that Leherb's Restaurant, 240 Boulevard, would be sold was denied by Leo Hayman, who with Herbert J. Middagh own and operate the restaurant.

Mr. Hayman said they "have no intentions of moving."

Old Barrel Plant, Garage Uptown Listed as Sites

Recent developments indicate that International Business Machines Corporation will have two additional locations in Kingston, one on North Front street and the other on Bruyn avenue, near Cornell street.

At a meeting of the Kingston Zoning Board Wednesday night in the city hall there was no opposition to an application by the firm to use an automobile show room and garage for IBM purposes.

A RELIABLE SOURCE today said IBM had applied for a lease on the former barrel factory, adjacent to the Rupp Trucking Co. freight terminal on Bruyn avenue.

It is understood that the old cooperage plant is to be used for storage purposes by the business machines manufacturers over a period of five years. The building has 22,000 square feet of space.

CARPENTERS have been working on the building, owned by the Rupp Company, for some time, installing new flooring and replacing windows, it was reported.

J. H. McCann Jr., was the attorney appearing last night in behalf of the IBM application. It was explanied that IBM would use space in the former Wiltwyck Motors building to house engineering and designing units, offices, and to use the garage space for sub-assembly purposes.

It was indicated that about 40 persons would be employed and an estimated $30,000 would be spent to improve the property. Show rooms in the building would be used for IBM educational exhibits.

NO OPPOSITION was expected to arise, it was indicated, as long as the building remained generally commercial in character. Attorney Arthur E. Davis Jr., appeared for area property owners, and among those who spoke were Adrian Kaplan, and Raymond E. Kraft.

The board indicated that only a statement of consent from area property holders would be

Economic Advantages Stressed

Ordinance Asked If Firm Moves In

Most of 75 persons at a hearing last night on rezoning of the Steep Rocks area of the city for operation of a cement plant indicated they were in favor of the new industry.

SOME APPEARED concerned over possible neighborhood inconvenience such as blasting and dust, but all were assured by the experts present, and by those who had seen a similar plant in Detroit, that it would be cleanly operated and blasting would be properly regulated.

The hearing, on application of the Strelene Realty Corp., which is interested in building a $10,000,000 plant here, was conducted by Alderman Abram D. Relyea, chairman of the Common Council's laws and rules committee, in the city court room, city hall.

TWO ALDERMEN on the committee indicated they would prefer an ordinance strictly regulating blasting before they would vote on the proposal, and spokesmen for the company said it would go along with all such regulations.

Members of the committee present were Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, and Aldermen Edwin Radel and William K. Bodenweber. The latter two indicated they were definitely in favor of the regulating ordinance.

THE MAJORITY of those who spoke were definitely in favor of bringing the plant to the city and those who spoke otherwise indicated no direct opposition, but were concerned with possible effects of the plant in the surrounding downtown area.

Representatives of several trade unions spoke in favor of bringing the plant to the city, and Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce said he hopes the laws and rules committee would report favorably on the application.

George E. Yerry, Jr., of the Hudson Valley Council of Carpenters, stressed that laborers and skilled workmen were home owners and taxpayers in the city and vicinity, and he asked that their interests be considered. It might be a welcome change, he noted, if more local industries employed men so that the women could stay home.

OTHERS representing labor groups were: Stephen Gill, secretary-treasurer of the Ulster County Building Trades and Painters; Thomas J. Mitchell, business manager of Electricians Union, Local 645; August Parker, Laborers Local 715; Joseph Verdi, Local 99, Roofers; Martin Oberkerch, Plumbers Local 223, Albert Melville, representing Samuel Doyle, Iron Workers Local 417; George Nagy, Bricklayers Local 14, and Edward Salch, Sheet metal Workers Local 38.

Attorney Abraham Streifer, appeared as the local representative of the Strelene Realty Corp., with Frank Campochiaro as his associate, and the New York representatives of the applicant were attorneys Jacob and Aaron Gutstein.

WALT DUNHAM, of Kingston, in explaining the blasting technique, said the blasting schedule would be regular and on a small scale each time so that no heavy blast loads would be necessary. The area was largely limestone, which is not hard to blast, he said.

Attorney Streifer and others who had been on the recent inspection tour of the Detroit plant of the Peerless Cement Co., reported the plant as thoroughly modern and clean, and Fifth Ward Alderman Samuel Perry, who was also on the trip said that 200 turkey dinners were served at the Detroit plant near a point where the

A six-room East Kingston home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ricks and their five children was badly damaged by fire early Wednesday night when a glass jug of kerosene on the stove apparently exploded, it was reported this morning by Fire Chief James Costello of the East Kingston Fire Company.

No one was in the home located on Railroad avenue, at the time, Chief Costello said. One of the boys, about 14 years of age, had left the house at the time to fetch a pail of water from a well located about a hundred feet from the dwelling.

The boy ran to the home of a neighbor who called Chief Costello. The fire department fought the blaze and managed to bring it under control before the house could be destroyed. The chief said it had been badly damaged, and will need considerable work before it can be occupied again.

The Ricks family spent the night with friends on Gage street in Kingston, it was reported. They could not be reached this morning. Chief Costello said he understood there were five children, ranging in age from 4½ to 14.

Most of the furniture was removed from the house before it could be damaged. The fire apparently started on the kerosene cook stove in the kitchen.

Chief Costello said the home, owned by Brigham Bros., was particularly difficult for firemen to handle because the wooden shingles had been patched with heavy tin.

Part of the roof burned, some

Father Hearon Is Made Monsignor; Served in Ulster

The Rev. James P. Hearon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Poughkeepsie, formerly of Ulster county, has been made a monsignor of the Roman Catholic Church, according to a report published in The Poughkeepsie New Yorker Wednesday.

Father Hearon, who at one time served as priest of St. John's Church, Stony Hollow, was designated a domestic prelate by Pope Pius XII. Notice of his elevation came from Francis Cardinal Spellman of the New York archdiocese.

While Father Hearon became a monsignor with the receipt of the notice from Cardinal Spellman, his investiture will not

Volunteer Fire Police Give Approval to Incorporation

Final action was taken Wednesday night in Highland by members of the Volunteer Fire Police Association of Ulster County toward incorporation. The group was addressed by Richard Lent, New Paltz attorney and members of the association, and after a discussion on the adoption of the corporation papers which were read for the third time, the proposal was unanimously approved. The association will be known as the Volunteer Fire Police Association of Ulster County, Inc.

President Alvin Beatty presided at the meeting held in the Highland Hose Company Firehouse. The men were welcomed by Fire Chief Maynard of Highland.

A roll call showed 65 present. By vote 12 new members were received from Marlborough, five from Napanoch and three from Ulster Hose Company No. 5, making a total membership in the county of 174.

A report on the fire school was read by President Beatty and a communication from the Fire Service in Albany was received. If the board of supervisors grants permission for use of a room in the county court house the school will start in April. A report on this will be given at the February meeting.

Secretary Arthur Rice reported he had written the Commis-

Fruit Diseases, Sprays, Insects Growers' Topics

Growers and interested visitors from all over the state and from points as far away as Canada, Wisconsin and the Carolinas poured into the state armory Wednesday to attend the 101st Eastern Meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society.

They found practically all leading firms displaying new orchard sprayers, tractors, machinery, spray materials, fruit packages, nursery stock, seeds, insecticides, fungicides, tools, irrigation equipment, etc.

They paused with interest before interesting and informative educational exhibits prepared by the College of Agriculture, the State Experiment Station and the Poughkeepsie Laboratory. Experts were present to explain the exhibits.

Yesterday morning the 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America apple judging and identification and the apple disease and insect identification contests were held in the garage adjoining the large armory drill hall. Members of the FFA also competed in a grading contest. No results were immediately available.

A 4-H Club pie-baking contest was held this morning—the apple pie contest at 10 a. m. and the contest in other pies at 10:45 a. m. There were also 13 other apple pie demonstrations. Eleven club members were scheduled to compete in the apple pie contest and 10 in the contest for other pies.

Lunches are served in the basement of the armory by units of the 156th Field Artillery Armored Battalion, New York National Guard, which has headquarters in the armory.

Throughout the day speakers held forth in the gymnasium on subjects vital to growers: Report on Quality of Apples Being Sold in Our Stores, Joe Firth, De-

Taxpayers Claim Rush For Help With Schools

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—A taxpayers group declared today that taxpayers were being "rushed along on a wave of hysteria" to support federal and state programs for aid to schools running into the billions of dollars.

The Citizens Public Expenditures Survey Inc. said this was being done although the education problem "has been neither located nor defined."

It is impossible to determine the need for such programs, the organization said, until problems have been pinpointed in individual school districts in the state and across the nation.

The survey said in a statement that the true picture of the problem was not shown by statewide and nationwide grand totals on the number of children soon to be in school and the number of pupils now on double or triple sessions or in makeshift facilities.

"The real truth," the survey said, "is that such conditions are not typical of all school districts or even of a great proportion of the school districts." The organization added:

"And yet taxpayers are being rushed along on a wave of hysteria to provide state-aid programs costing hundreds of millions of dollars and federal-aid programs in billion-dollar amounts for solution of a problem which has been neither located nor defined."

The survey said that 686 of the 1,980 school districts in the state were not operating schools this year because they did not have enough school-age pupils. Such districts found it more economical to contract with other districts to handle their pupils, the survey reported.

The organization contended also that the number of school-age children in most cities of the state now was less than the number in 1934-35.

"This does not mean these cities have no school-building needs," the survey said. "It does prove that the . . . problem can be defined only in terms of individual districts and not in terms of mass totals for the state."

The survey asserted that taxpayers "are being bombarded with generalized statements about school needs designed to appeal more to their emotions than to their reason."

GM Is Charged With False Advertising About Parts

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—General Motors Corp. has been charged by the government with falsely advertising that "genuine Chevrolet" replacement parts are better than parts competitors sell without the "genuine" label.

GM had no immediate comment on the complaint, issued yesterday by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

FTC said GM buys many Chevrolet parts from other manufacturers, some of whom design the parts themselves and sell to others besides GM.

These parts, said FTC, "are at least equal in all material respects" to those GM sells, but GM advertises the parts it buys as "genuine" with the implication that all others are not as good.

The federal agency accused GM of representing that the Chevrolet parts it distributes are designed and manufactured exclusively for GM. It called this "false, misleading and deceptive" and said GM's claims "divert business from competitors to their injury and the injury of the public, in violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act."

FTC said its complaint "had nothing to do with" the recent hearings on GM held by a Senate antitrust subcommittee headed by Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.).

President Harlow Curtice and other GM officials testified they are not trying to squeeze out smaller firms in replacement parts for GM cars. They said GM now sells half of all new cars and trucks but has only 20 per cent of the parts business, so the company naturally wants to capture a bigger share of the parts market.

GM has 30 days to file an answer to the FTC complaint. A hearing before an FTC examiner was set for Feb. 14 in Detroit.

Wyoming Mother Shows Educators the Light

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Mrs. Fred D. Boice, Jr., an attractive mother of two youngsters from Cheyenne, Wyo., is rocking the nation's top educators right back on their blackboards.

Mrs. Boice's idea turned out to be one of the hottest to come out of the high-level White House Conference on Education because it revealed that she and a handful of public-spirited citizens in Wyoming are just about five years ahead of everyone else at the conference. Its citizens weren't asking anybody for anything.

Her report included these facts:

Five years ago the Wyoming legislature, upset by the state's deteriorating schools, set up a citizens' committee to investigate the problem. As a member of the legislature, informed on school problems, a tireless worker and the mother of two kids, Mrs. Boice was made chairman.

"THE FIRST STEP in solving any problem is to face squarely the fact that the problem exists," she says. "That's what we did by going to the people all over the state, taking a completely objective look at the schools and trying not to be blinded by school legislation already on the books.

"Each member paid his or her own expenses and worked hard. We did a $300,000 study on $12,000—which proves that the size of an appropriation does not limit the accomplishment."

What her committee uncovered was a situation not worse than the present one existing in most states. But not much better, and getting worse.

In a few years enrollment had jumped 24 per cent. The state's birth rate was 11 per cent higher than the national average. Only 37 out of the state's 87 high schools were accredited by the North Central Association.

A STUDY OF THE state's outmoded school district system revealed that 320 one-teacher rural schools were being maintained in separately organized districts, 45 districts did not maintain any schools and about two-thirds of the districts did not maintain high schools.

Only 47 per cent of the elementary teachers and 16 per cent of the rural teachers had four years of college.

The committee decided that the immediate need was 500 more teachers and 400 additional classrooms.

Then the committee tackled the most difficult of all educational problems: How schools are financed.

IT FOUND THAT ONE method of appropriating money was on the basis of the number of teachers and school bus drivers in a district. The effect of this was to give more money to the wealthier districts and less to the poorer ones.

The final report was put into attractive, booklet form which any person could read and understand, and distributed widely around the state.

Among other things the report recommended that practically all present laws governing the financing of schools be replaced with new ones adaptable to modern, growing educational needs.

Chief financial recommendations were that a one per cent sales tax be authorized for the support of the schools and that the basic education cost formula be computed on a minimum expenditure per classroom.

IT SAID:

"Guarantee to every child in rural, elementary and high schools a program costing $5,500 per classroom unit."

This is a respectable figure for any U. S. state school system.

Then, when the committee laid its report before the legislature last January there was such universal understanding and support for it that recommendations were passed unanimously.

Today the state is well on its way to getting one of the most progressive school systems in the United States.

WyomingMotherShows Educators the Light

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Mrs. Fred D. Boice, Jr., an attractive mother of two youngsters from Cheyenne, Wyo., is rocking the nation's top educators right back on their blackboards.

Mrs. Boice's idea turned out to be one of the hottest to come out of the high-level White House Conference on Education because it revealed that she and a handful of public-spirited citizens in Wyoming are just about five years ahead of everyone else at the conference. Its citizens weren't asking anybody for anything.

Her report included these facts:

Five years ago the Wyoming legislature, upset by the state's deteriorating schools, set up a citizens' committee to investigate the problem. As a member of the legislature, informed on school problems, a tireless worker and the mother of two kids, Mrs. Boice was made chairman.

"THE FIRST STEP in solving any problem is to face squarely the fact that the problem exists," she says. "That's what we did by going to the people all over the state, taking a completely objective look at the schools and trying not to be blinded by school legislation already on the books.

"Each member paid his or her own expenses and worked hard. We did a $300,000 study on $12,000—which proves that the size of an appropriation does not limit the accomplishment."

What her committee uncovered was a situation not worse than the present one existing in most states. But not much better, and getting worse.

In a few years enrollment had jumped 24 per cent. The state's birth rate was 11 per cent higher than the national average. Only 37 out of the state's 87 high schools were accredited by the North Central Association.

A STUDY OF THE state's outmoded school district system revealed that 320 one-teacher rural schools were being maintained in separately organized districts, 45 districts did not maintain any schools and about two-thirds of the districts did not maintain high schools.

Only 47 per cent of the elementary teachers and 16 per cent of the rural teachers had four years of college.

The committee decided that the immediate need was 500 more teachers and 400 additional classrooms.

Then the committee tackled the most difficult of all educational problems: How schools are financed.

IT FOUND THAT ONE method of appropriating money was on the basis of the number of teachers and school bus drivers in a district. The effect of this was to give more money to the wealthier districts and less to the poorer ones.

LOOK FOR REDS' JOKER

The Russian policy of trying to bite off all Germany is as changeless in its basic elements as are the general Soviet aims of world conquest. But, as so often happens, they have once again put a new face on that purpose.

The Kremlin always has proposed German unity in terms that would have required West Germany's severance from the Western alliance. With the firm support of West German Chancellor Adenauer, the West has steadily rejected this plan as an obvious step toward Soviet control of Germany.

Having failed once more on this score at the second Geneva conference, the Russian leaders are now trying to achieve the same goal by another means. They are trying to force West Germany to deal directly with Communist East Germany on a practical, everyday level. From these enforced contacts, they believe a working German unity may arise that will favor the Soviet Union.

Some months ago, of course, the Russians granted "sovereignty" to the East Germans. Recently it declared Berlin the capital of East Germany. Now East German soldiers have taken over from Soviet soldiers as border patrols along the partition line. And the East German government has been given control of Berlin's vital barge canals.

The objective is plain. Russia evidently will no longer accept responsbility in any border incidents, but demand that they be taken up with the East Germans.

In the same way, all matters involving West Berlin's heavy traffic on the barge canals will be referred by the Russians to the East German government.

The Russians probably have no illusions they can budge Adenauer by these or any other pressures. But they know there are strong forces in West Germany favoring direct negotiations with the East Germans. And they imagine their hand will be strengthened if there is a record of successful daily dealings to point to.

They would in fact like to bring matters to the stage where they can some day say to the West and to some successor of Adenauer:

"Look, what is the point of arguing further? East and West Germany are for all practical purposes unified and you might as well recognize the fact."

Naturally the West is resisting this new Soviet campaign, and is insisting on dealing with Russia itself on border issues and all matters relating to the life of Berlin, such as barge traffic. It is our position that Berlin is still managed by the Big Four powers and no one else.

Nevertheless the Kremlin effort to elevate East Germany in power and prestige and compel Bonn to deal with it could have forceful impact in the unending struggle for the German prize. It is nothing for us to view complacently.

COMPARED WITH RUSSIA

Americans are accustomed to thinking of their country as the most powerful and most populous in the world. We may be most powerful, but not the most populous. Latest figures gathered by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization estimate Russia as having 214,500,000 people in 1954. Our 1950 census showed only 150,000,000 which may have increased by another 8,000,000 by 1954. All North America has only 233,000,000 population, so Russia is not far from equaling the number of inhabitants in the United States, Canada and Central America.

Though Russian statistics are hard to gather and may not be reliable, indications are that Russia's population is growing faster than our own. Fortunately, our industrial efficiency is far ahead of theirs and the agricultural problem in this nation is one of over not under-production. When trying to measure Russian power, their overwhelming strength in numbers must be considered against their ability to nourish adequately and to provide a minimal living standard for that large number. Thus far it appears that neither of these modest goals have been achieved.

Men these days run lots of things around the house. Vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, errands, just to mention a few.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

"THE SURE VICTORY"

Fortunately as the Christmas season approaches, Madame Chiang Kai-shek's little book, "The Sure Victory," appears in the bookshops and no better Christmas book has been written in recent years.

I recall the girl, Meiling Soong, who breezed into Shanghai from Wellesley, whose major interest was poetry and English. She had been in the United States much of her life, having been sent to Macon, Georgia, to stay with Bishop Ainsworth there to be reared as an American girl. She was a Southern Methodist, as her mother had been. Her father, Charles Jones Soong, had always lived in the United States, he first coming to attention at the age of 10 as a cabin boy on the U. S. Revenue Cutter, Colfax, Charles Jones, Captain. He was baptized in Wilmington, North Carolina, and later peddled hammocks on the roads of Southern states, studying at Duke University and later at Vanderbilt in Nashville. He was sent to China to teach English and Bible as a missionary. He settled in Shanghai. Some of his students have told me that he was a brilliant English teacher.

Meiling Soong, before and since she married Chiang Kai-shek, has been a devout Christian. Her mother converted Chiang to Christianity which changed him from a usual Chinese militarist to an ardent social reformer. As I have known him in both phases of his life, I speak not from hearsay but of the miracles that are wrought in personality by prayer.

Meiling Soong wrote this little book, "The Sure Victory," about prayer and then thought that it should not be published. But friends intervened and here is what she says:

"I had great hesitancy about writing this message, for several reasons. One is that I do not want to give the impression that I am a better Christian than I am. After considerable thought I came to the conclusion that no one who has had a unique experience with prayer has a right to withhold it from others. Besides, I believe that the main line of attack against the evils of today is in my hands and in yours—in prayer."

This is the story of a small prayer group on the island of Formosa. Few human beings have passed through all the hells that have been Meiling Soong's life since she left off writing poetry and entered upon a public career with her husband. Added to all her woes is an illness, picked up in the tropics, which recurs and forces her to take refuge in American hospitals for prolonged cures. Nevertheless her faith has grown. She says:

"Perhaps I should explain a little further what I mean by a nominal Christian. In my mind I accepted unquestioningly and unreservedly the divinity of Christ, His teachings and His grace. I believed, too, that Jesus came to the world to atone for sinners, but frankly this meant little to me. Although He died for me, He also died for everybody. This fact, therefore, had not personal significance. It was like enjoying a cool breeze on a hot summer day. Everybody enjoyed it who felt it. The breeze was nothing personal; it was just there. I was grateful for it but not inordinately so. As far as being a sinner was concerned, everybody was a sinner and certainly my sins were no more wicked than those of the average person. This is what I mean by acceptance in my mind, instead of a truly personal experiencing of faith."

And this she answers:

"As my own faith has grown through meditations and fresh understanding, a deeper meaning has come to our prayers together. Many a time a feeling of spiritual peace seems to exude from within me, bringing completely annihilated self, with the mind in quiet and continuous absorption in the keen contemplation of God. When in this state, one is practically oblivious to the calls of this world, likes and dislikes, honor and name, hate and love."

This little book is inspiring and was written during the past few months when, for a Chinese, it took courage and fortitude to have faith in the future. The little episode of Canada's proposal of admitting the Red Chinese province of Mongolia into the United Nation must have aroused the anxiety of all on Formosa.

But there is no lessening in her faith in the mercy and miracles of God.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TRAINING

One of the great events in the track world was the breaking of the "four-minute" mile by Roger Bannister. And one of the most interesting points about this achievement was the method by which this young physician trained himself, deliberately increasing heart and lung power to the point at which this feat became possible.

"Training, then, is essentially activity; all else is but contributory. More and more of the taboos of the past have been stripped away and what little remains will disappear. The modern athlete has come to realize that granted the necessary technical application to exercise, little departure is demanded from his customary habits, assuming these are reasonably hygienic. In other words, training may be described as the progressive improvement of ability to execute an act through repeated performance."

I am quoting an article on Training for Athletes by Sir Adolph Abrahams, who mentions some of the old taboos of the past century which have persisted into modern day training. The restriction of liquids, the forcing of large quantities of meat, the cutting out of smoking, overemphasis on long hours of sleep, the belief that extra doses or combinations of vitamins will increase physical efficiency — are some of the beliefs this research physician feels to be of no value.

So far as diet is concerned, he believes that a good all-round diet, not allowed to become monotonous and taking into consideration the individual athlete's own personal preferences, is all that is needed. As for smoking, while it may reduce the reserve power of the heart to a slight extent, the nervous disturbance of the individual deprived of tobacco may be of greater importance.

"Staleness" is a bugbear of all athletic trainers. An athlete in strict training leads a monotonous life of exercise, food, habits, and even of conversation and thought. The stale athlete's appearance is one of dejection. He is peevish, irritable and unreasonably annoyed over trifles. His appetite is bad, his sleep disturbed and unrefreshing. He loses all zest for exertion and loathes the running track and all connected therewith. A continuous loss of weight is usual. The condition is a species of brainfag, with repercussions on the whole body. The present day, intense competitive athletics produce the highly strung type with an exaggerated emphasis upon the importance of achievement, fostered by the limelight of publicity.

Sir Adolph Abrahams' advice to prevent staleness is a "relaxation in diet, perhaps some alcohol, by diversions and recreations, by a substitute such as golf, for strenuous exercise, and by as complete a change as possible of air, scene and occupation."

Getting Too Big for His Father's Britches

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington —(NEA)— Merger of American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations isn't going to make a great deal of difference in the immediate future. This is the consensus of leading Washington labor relations consultants inside and outside government.

Oratory emerging from the convention in New York may give the impression this is the greatest thing that ever happened.

Employers and some Republican politicians are inclined to view it as the most terrible thing that ever happened.

They point with alarm to AFL-CIO President George Meany's recent statement: "The scene of battle is no longer the company plant or picket line. It has moved into the halls of Congress and state legislatures."

William L. Barton, general counsel of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, says: "It could lead to government by labor unions. . . . The next two decades could undermine if not destroy the American free enterprise system."

Contrast this with John L. Lewis' terse statement that the new merger constitutes "a rope of sand."

CALMER ANALYSES discount the importance of the merger. They point out that labor disputes will be conducted across the same old bargaining tables and in grievance committees with the same faces.

Any new labor crises are expected to come only from organizing new unions in established or new plants. Such organizing drives have always been a headache. Any big, new, merged organizing drive takes time to mount and money to keep going.

One Washington labor consultant's view is that under the new setup an employer will have less opportunity to change unions in his plant if he or his employes have trouble with officers of the existing local.

ANOTHER LABOR EXPERT believes there may be fewer National Labor Relations Board elections to determine which of two, three or even four unions shall be the bargaining agent. He thinks future elections will be a choice between one union or no union at all.

NLRB Member Philip Ray Rodgers questions both views. He thinks there may be even more NLRB elections.

NLRB's own figures show there has been a 20 per cent increase in the number of applications for elections in the past year. This has been the result of jockeying by both employers and unions. They have been trying to get the best possible position before the merger.

ELDER STATESMEN in the union movement now like to boast that Labor (capital L) has now grown up, is more responsible, is anxious to eliminate jurisdictional disputes and other monkey business that has given it a bad name.

They point to the merger's no-raiding agreement.

To the extent that jurisdictional strikes and raiding are eliminated, the merger could mean greater labor peace. But there is no assurance that's ahead.

Top labor union officials will admit privately that it may take 20 years to work out all internal problems.

In the meantime, George Meany, Walter Reuther and their associated new breed of labor tycoon have one of the largest public relations jobs in history. This is to convince the American people that the merger is in the public interest, and that what's good for General Labor is good for the country.

MEMORIAL TO A CRIME

The ruins of the Chateau de Muret near Vic sur Ceres, France have been left standing as a memorial to an atrocious crime. In 1571 Pierre de Muret, owner of the castle was served a summons here by a process server named Loup (Wolf). After accepting the summons, Pierre said: "Never has any Wolf entered this castle without leaving his paw here." Saying which, he suddenly chopped off the process server's hand with an axe he was holding. When King Charles IX of France learned of this revolting piece of savagery, he ordered the guilty man executed and the castle demolished and the ruins left standing forever as a memorial to a barbarous act of cruelty.

Most of Ford Fund Giveaway Would Have Gone for Taxes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 14 — It wasn't all Ford money, but at least three-fourths of the $500,000,000 recently announced as donated by the Ford Foundation to hospitals and colleges really would have belonged to Uncle Sam if the estate taxes had been applied. Instead of letting Congress decide how to spend the $383,000,000 which would have been collected in taxes, the Ford family exercised its legal right to determine how the money should be spent.

The estate-tax rates of the United States government and of the government of the State of Michigan are about 76.9 per cent at present. If the Ford Foundation had not been created, approximately $3,000,000,000—which is the estimated present value of the shares of stock held by the Ford Foundation—would have been subject to taxation. While there would be some slight diminution of the tax due to marital deductions and division of interests among members of the family, the approximate tax on the shares bequeathed to the Ford Foundation would have been about $2,308,400,000.

This means that the Ford family would have had about $691,600,000 remaining out of the $3,000,000,000 after paying the tax collectors. So the late Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, determined that it was much better to give the whole $3,000,000,000 to a charitable foundation.

Actually the gift represented 88 per cent of the Ford shares outstanding. The remaining 12 per cent, which wasn't given away, represents a sizable fortune by itself, too.

IT IS ESTIMATED by experts that government expenditures for "welfare purposes"—Federal, state and local — now are at least nine times the amount given voluntary "for the same purposes, which a generation or two ago would have been determined to lie wholly within the field of private 'charity'."

Any American can do in principle what the Fords did. The Federal income-tax laws permit up to 20 per cent to be deducted from gross income of individuals for charitable contributions and ,if additional donations are made to churches, tax-exempt schools and hospitals, the total exemption from taxes can go as high as 30 per cent.

Thus, on a $20,000 income, with a donation of $6,000, the individual would, in effect, give $2,600 of his own money, while Uncle Sam would be contributing $3,400 through a reduced tax.

OUT OF a $50,000 income, the taxpayer could give $15,000, with his own share being $5,000 and the government really contributing $10,000.

Out of a $100,000 income, there could be a $30,000 contribution, of which the taxpayer would have to give only $5,850, while the government would be putting up $24,150.

This is the time of year when tax-exempt organizations, schools, hospitals and charitable institutions of various kinds are busy explaining to would-be donors how easy it is to give away a small portion of what one would really retain after taxes and how much of the contribution would in fact be paid by Uncle Sam.

Congress, of course probably wouldn't spend $500,000,000 for the same purposes, for example, that the Ford Foundation designated. At present there is raging a battle over Federal aid to education, with some protagonists insisting that the Federal government should build school buildings and provide educational facilities generally to supplement those provided by the several states, and there are other groups which want Federal aid continued to welfare or auxiliary services such as transportation, lunches and health benefits.

MEANWHILE, the Ford Foundation has cut through the whole problem by deciding what Congress wouldn't be able to decide without a lot of controversy.

No private organization in American history has ever before made such a large bequest as the $500,000,000 announced the other day to be given to 615 colleges and 3.500 hospitals.

But the American citizen who is inclined to donate to private charity has the same right—he can make up his own welfare program. The tax laws are written so as to encourage philanthropy. The Ford Foundation gifts serve to dramatize the whole idea of private giving and, in a sense, it is a challenege to the citizenry to take care of their own institutions without relying on the Federal government to do it all.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

During the ten years since Truman and Eisenhower abandoned 18 million Christian East Germans to the anti-religious Soviet tyranny, West Germany has been collecting information on the routine persecution of individual victims in the criminal courts of the East Zone. This is not hard to do even in these days of synthetic East German hostility because there is a large casual traffic between East and West resembling somewhat the interflow between our north and south during reconstruction. Germans visit relatives to and fro and ties of family and race actually do unify this people even though political unity seems to lie far beyond any horizon.

The West Germans noted with methodical patience many specific atrocities inflicted on their lost countrymen in scrapes with the Soviet regime, administered by renegade Germans. They have set forth particulars in official documents which establish a record. Possibly, one distant day, there will be new courts of revenge like those of the vicious de-Nazification racket, and true Germans will hang traitors who since 1945 have wallowed in dishonor out of sheer perfidy.

These West German records have been read by few persons even in Germany and our people have never heard of them, However, they can be seen in Bonn and at the West German municipal headquarters in Berlin where I acquired a small library on the silent terror.

There are other distinct phases of these dreadful inflictions on patriotic Germans for an agonizing variety of unintentional missteps. But the great roundup of "Nazis" who were swept into Waldheim and kept in concentration for five years awaiting trial was a repitition by our gallant ally of the earlier Bolshevik pounds in Russia.

Two women clerks of the Red bureaucracy set up after Ike fell back from the Elbe, gave signed statements. They were Gerda Bergling and Gertrud Milke, who got away to the West in the spring of 1952. They worked at Waldheim taking "depositions" and "assisted in police interrogations of 3,500 prisoners." The "evidence" consisted of a declaration of the prisoner's property and a brief statement by the prisoner of his life history. There was no charge of any crime in most cases. But the Soviet and East German Reds hit upon the scheme of inquiring whether the prisoner had been "an industrious worker."

Naturally, they answered "yes" until the trick was exposed. This answer was interpreted in the "deposition" as follows: "The prisoner devoted all his strength to support of the Nazi party."

When the word got aronud that a simple boast of industrious character had this awful significance, wary prisoners refused to give that answer and were thrown into dark cells without food. The trials were secret except of a few who really had misdeeds to answer for. Such cases were hippodromed before large crowds. Trials lasted from 20 to 30 minutes, the judges deliberated from 5 to 10 minutes and sentences of life, and death, were pronounced casually.

Gerda Bergling wrote that "investigators" who produced no "evidence" were fired.

Gertrud Milke said the indictments charged collective rather than personal guilt. Kurt Bever, of Dresden, a high German police officer working with the Russians, emphasized the fact that the evidence available was extremely flimsy and ordered the staff to "squeeze" the prisoners for admissions. Prisoners never were allowed to engage their own counsel and many were brought into court on stretchers, down with apoplexy or tuberculosis. Women prisoners came to court with their heads shorn.

"Prosecutors and judges knew," Gertrud Milke wrote, "that terrible injustice was committed. To still their qualms, Frau Dr. Heinze, of the East Zone Ministry of Justice, told them the accused had to be shut away in the interest of Democratic construction."

Some of the prisoners undoubtedly had been members of the National Socialist Party, a legitimate political organization in Germany and no more tyrannical than the United Mine Workers, the American Federation of Musicians or the Communist party of the United States which had been such an affectionate ally of Roosevelt's Democratic party that Roosevelt released Earl Browder from prison in the interests of "national unity." Others were German ex-Communists who had succumbed to Hitler's lures or pressure. But the majority were just Germans of ordinary political character. The 3,500 dwindled during the five years between their arrest and the unexpected beginning of the trials.

The West German government, when it turned out this record in 1952, was still in the captouching mood induced by the arrogance of the de-Nazification courts. There were composed of non-combatant Americans and German runaways, most of them Communists. Instead of damning the American de-Nazification courts as filthy rackets for revenge and loot, the West German government in 1952 said these abominations had followed fixed, ethical rules of procedure. However, all concerned knew they were a disgrace to the United States.

LOOK FOR REDS' JOKER

The Russian policy of trying to bite off all Germany is as changeless in its basic elements as are the general Soviet aims of world conquest. But, as so often happens, they have once again put a new face on that purpose.

The Kremlin always has proposed German unity in terms that would have required West Germany's severance from the Western alliance. With the firm support of West German Chancellor Adenauer, the West has steadily rejected this plan as an obvious step toward Soviet control of Germany.

Having failed once more on this score at the second Geneva conference, the Russian leaders are now trying to achieve the same goal by another means. They are trying to force West Germany to deal directly with Communist East Germany on a practical, everyday level. From these enforced contacts, they believe a working German unity may arise that will favor the Soviet Union.

Some months ago, of course, the Russians granted "sovereignty" to the East Germans. Recently it declared Berlin the capital of East Germany. Now East German soldiers have taken over from Soviet soldiers as border patrols along the partition line. And the East German government has been given control of Berlin's vital barge canals.

The objective is plain. Russia evidently will no longer accept responsbility in any border incidents, but demand that they be taken up with the East Germans.

In the same way, all matters involving West Berlin's heavy traffic on the barge canals will be referred by the Russians to the East German government.

The Russians probably have no illusions they can budge Adenauer by these or any other pressures. But they know there are strong forces in West Germany favoring direct negotiations with the East Germans. And they imagine their hand will be strengthened if there is a record of successful daily dealings to point to.

They would in fact like to bring matters to the stage where they can some day say to the West and to some successor of Adenauer:

"Look, what is the point of arguing further? East and West Germany are for all practical purposes unified and you might as well recognize the fact."

Naturally the West is resisting this new Soviet campaign, and is insisting on dealing with Russia itself on border issues and all matters relating to the life of Berlin, such as barge traffic. It is our position that Berlin is still managed by the Big Four powers and no one else.

Nevertheless the Kremlin effort to elevate East Germany in power and prestige and compel Bonn to deal with it could have forceful impact in the unending struggle for the German prize. It is nothing for us to view complacently.

COMPARED WITH RUSSIA

Americans are accustomed to thinking of their country as the most powerful and most populous in the world. We may be most powerful, but not the most populous. Latest figures gathered by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization estimate Russia as having 214,500,000 people in 1954. Our 1950 census showed only 150,000,000 which may have increased by another 8,000,000 by 1954. All North America has only 233,000,000 population, so Russia is not far from equaling the number of inhabitants in the United States, Canada and Central America.

Though Russian statistics are hard to gather and may not be reliable, indications are that Russia's population is growing faster than our own. Fortunately, our industrial efficiency is far ahead of theirs and the agricultural problem in this nation is one of over not under-production. When trying to measure Russian power, their overwhelming strength in numbers must be considered against their ability to nourish adequately and to provide a minimal living standard for that large number. Thus far it appears that neither of these modest goals have been achieved.

Men these days run lots of things around the house. Vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, errands, just to mention a few.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

"THE SURE VICTORY"

Fortunately as the Christmas season approaches, Madame Chiang Kai-shek's little book, "The Sure Victory," appears in the bookshops and no better Christmas book has been written in recent years.

I recall the girl, Meiling Soong, who breezed into Shanghai from Wellesley, whose major interest was poetry and English. She had been in the United States much of her life, having been sent to Macon, Georgia, to stay with Bishop Ainsworth there to be reared as an American girl. She was a Southern Methodist, as her mother had been. Her father, Charles Jones Soong, had always lived in the United States, he first coming to attention at the age of 10 as a cabin boy on the U. S. Revenue Cutter, Colfax, Charles Jones, Captain. He was baptized in Wilmington, North Carolina, and later peddled hammocks on the roads of Southern states, studying at Duke University and later at Vanderbilt in Nashville. He was sent to China to teach English and Bible as a missionary. He settled in Shanghai. Some of his students have told me that he was a brilliant English teacher.

Meiling Soong, before and since she married Chiang Kai-shek, has been a devout Christian. Her mother converted Chiang to Christianity which changed him from a usual Chinese militarist to an ardent social reformer. As I have known him in both phases of his life, I speak not from hearsay but of the miracles that are wrought in personality by prayer.

Meiling Soong wrote this little book, "The Sure Victory," about prayer and then thought that it should not be published. But friends intervened and here is what she says:

"I had great hesitancy about writing this message, for several reasons. One is that I do not want to give the impression that I am a better Christian than I am. After considerable thought I came to the conclusion that no one who has had a unique experience with prayer has a right to withhold it from others. Besides, I believe that the main line of attack against the evils of today is in my hands and in yours—in prayer."

This is the story of a small prayer group on the island of Formosa. Few human beings have passed through all the hells that have been Meiling Soong's life since she left off writing poetry and entered upon a public career with her husband. Added to all her woes is an illness, picked up in the tropics, which recurs and forces her to take refuge in American hospitals for prolonged cures. Nevertheless her faith has grown. She says:

"Perhaps I should explain a little further what I mean by a nominal Christian. In my mind I accepted unquestioningly and unreservedly the divinity of Christ, His teachings and His grace. I believed, too, that Jesus came to the world to atone for sinners, but frankly this meant little to me. Although He died for me, He also died for everybody. This fact, therefore, had not personal significance. It was like enjoying a cool breeze on a hot summer day. Everybody enjoyed it who felt it. The breeze was nothing personal; it was just there. I was grateful for it but not inordinately so. As far as being a sinner was concerned, everybody was a sinner and certainly my sins were no more wicked than those of the average person. This is what I mean by acceptance in my mind, instead of a truly personal experiencing of faith."

And this she answers:

"As my own faith has grown through meditations and fresh understanding, a deeper meaning has come to our prayers together. Many a time a feeling of spiritual peace seems to exude from within me, bringing completely annihilated self, with the mind in quiet and continuous absorption in the keen contemplation of God. When in this state, one is practically oblivious to the calls of this world, likes and dislikes, honor and name, hate and love."

This little book is inspiring and was written during the past few months when, for a Chinese, it took courage and fortitude to have faith in the future. The little episode of Canada's proposal of admitting the Red Chinese province of Mongolia into the United Nation must have aroused the anxiety of all on Formosa.

But there is no lessening in her faith in the mercy and miracles of God.

TRAINING

One of the great events in the track world was the breaking of the "four-minute" mile by Roger Bannister. And one of the most interesting points about this achievement was the method by which this young physician trained himself, deliberately increasing heart and lung power to the point at which this feat became possible.

"Training, then, is essentially activity; all else is but contributory. More and more of the taboos of the past have been stripped away and what little remains will disappear. The modern athlete has come to realize that granted the necessary technical application to exercise, little departure is demanded from his customary habits, assuming these are reasonably hygienic. In other words, training may be described as the progressive improvement of ability to execute an act through repeated performance."

I am quoting an article on Training for Athletes by Sir Adolph Abrahams, who mentions some of the old taboos of the past century which have persisted into modern day training. The restriction of liquids, the forcing of large quantities of meat, the cutting out of smoking, overemphasis on long hours of sleep, the belief that extra doses or combinations of vitamins will increase physical efficiency — are some of the beliefs this research physician feels to be of no value.

So far as diet is concerned, he believes that a good all-round diet, not allowed to become monotonous and taking into consideration the individual athlete's own personal preferences, is all that is needed. As for smoking, while it may reduce the reserve power of the heart to a slight extent, the nervous disturbance of the individual deprived of tobacco may be of greater importance.

"Staleness" is a bugbear of all athletic trainers. An athlete in strict training leads a monotonous life of exercise, food, habits, and even of conversation and thought. The stale athlete's appearance is one of dejection. He is peevish, irritable and unreasonably annoyed over trifles. His appetite is bad, his sleep disturbed and unrefreshing. He loses all zest for exertion and loathes the running track and all connected therewith. A continuous loss of weight is usual. The condition is a species of brainfag, with repercussions on the whole body. The present day, intense competitive athletics produce the highly strung type with an exaggerated emphasis upon the importance of achievement, fostered by the limelight of publicity.

Sir Adolph Abrahams' advice to prevent staleness is a "relaxation in diet, perhaps some alcohol, by diversions and recreations, by a substitute such as golf, for strenuous exercise, and by as complete a change as possible of air, scene and occupation."

Getting Too Big for His Father's Britches

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington —(NEA)— Merger of American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations isn't going to make a great deal of difference in the immediate future. This is the consensus of leading Washington labor relations consultants inside and outside government.

Oratory emerging from the convention in New York may give the impression this is the greatest thing that ever happened.

Employers and some Republican politicians are inclined to view it as the most terrible thing that ever happened.

They point with alarm to AFL-CIO President George Meany's recent statement: "The scene of battle is no longer the company plant or picket line. It has moved into the halls of Congress and state legislatures."

William L. Barton, general counsel of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, says: "It could lead to government by labor unions. . . . The next two decades could undermine if not destroy the American free enterprise system."

Contrast this with John L. Lewis' terse statement that the new merger constitutes "a rope of sand."

CALMER ANALYSES disbe conducted across the same old bargaining tables and in grievance committees with the same faces.

Any new labor crises are expected to come only from organizing new unions in established or new plants. Such organizing drives have always been a headache. Any big, new, merged organizing drive takes time to mount and money to keep going.

One Washington labor consultant's view is that under the new setup an employer will have less opportunity to change unions in his plant if he or his employes have trouble with officers of the existing local.

ANOTHER LABOR EXPERT believes there may be fewer National Labor Relations Board elections to determine which of two, three or even four unions shall be the bargaining agent. He thinks future elections will be a choice between one union or no union at all.

NLRB Member Philip Ray Rodgers questions both views. He thinks there may be even more NLRB elections.

NLRB's own figures show there has been a 20 per cent increase in the number of applications for elections in the past year. This has been the result of jockeying by both employers and unions. They have been trying to get the best possible position before the merger.

ELDER STATESMEN in the union movement now like to boast that Labor (capital L) has now grown up, is more responsible, is anxious to eliminate jurisdictional disputes and other monkey business that has given it a bad name.

They point to the merger's no-raiding agreement.

To the extent that jurisdictional strikes and raiding are eliminated, the merger could mean greater labor peace. But there is no assurance that's ahead.

Top labor union officials will admit privately that it may take 20 years to work out all internal problems.

In the meantime, George Meany, Walter Reuther and their associated new breed of labor tycoon have one of the largest public relations jobs in history. This is to convince the American people that the merger is in the public interest, and that what's good for General Labor is good for the country.

Most of Ford Fund Giveaway Would Have Gone for Taxes

There are other distinct phases of these dreadful inflictions on patriotic Germans for an agonizing variety of unintentional missteps. But the great roundup of "Nazis" who were swept into Waldheim and kept in concentration for five years awaiting trial was a repitition by our gallant ally of the earlier Bolshevik pounds in Russia.

Two women clerks of the Red bureaucracy set up after Ike fell back from the Elbe, gave signed statements. They were Gerda Bergling and Gertrud Milke, who got away to the West in the spring of 1952. They worked at Waldheim taking "depositions" and "assisted in police interrogations of 3,500 prisoners." The "evidence" consisted of a declaration of the prisoner's property and a brief statement by the prisoner of his life history. There was no charge of any crime in most cases. But the Soviet and East German Reds hit upon the scheme of inquiring whether the prisoner had been "an industrious worker."

Naturally, they answered "yes" until the trick was exposed. This answer was interpreted in the "deposition" as follows: "The prisoner devoted all his strength to support of the Nazi party."

When the word got aronud that a simple boast of industrious character had this awful significance, wary prisoners refused to give that answer and were thrown into dark cells without food. The trials were secret except of a few who really had misdeeds to answer for. Such cases were hippodromed before large crowds. Trials lasted from 20 to 30 minutes, the judges deliberated from 5 to 10 minutes and sentences of life, and death, were pronounced casually.

Gerda Bergling wrote that "investigators" who produced no "evidence" were fired.

Gertrud Milke said the indictments charged collective rather than personal guilt. Kurt Bever, of Dresden, a high German police officer working with the Russians, emphasized the fact that the evidence available was extremely flimsy and ordered the staff to "squeeze" the prisoners for admissions. Prisoners never were allowed to engage their own counsel and many were brought into court on stretchers, down with apoplexy or tuberculosis. Women prisoners came to court with their heads shorn.

"Prosecutors and judges knew," Gertrud Milke wrote, "that terrible injustice was committed. To still their qualms, Frau Dr. Heinze, of the East Zone Ministry of Justice, told them the accused had to be shut away in the interest of Democratic construction."

Some of the prisoners undoubtedly had been members of the National Socialist Party, a legitimate political organization in Germany and no more tyrannical than the United Mine Workers, the American Federation of Musicians or the Communist party of the United States which had been such an affectionate ally of Roosevelt's Democratic party that Roosevelt released Earl Browder from prison in the interests of "national unity." Others were German ex-Communists who had succumbed to Hitler's lures or pressure. But the majority were just Germans of ordinary political character. The 3,500 dwindled during the five years between their arrest and the unexpected beginning of the trials.

The West German government, when it turned out this record in 1952, was still in the captouching mood induced by the arrogance of the de-Nazification courts. There were composed of non-combatant Americans and German runaways, most of them Communists. Instead of damning the American de-Nazification courts as filthy rackets for revenge and loot, the West German government in 1952 said these abominations had followed fixed, ethical rules of procedure. However, all concerned knew they were a disgrace to the United States.

Fruit Diseases

partment of Agriculture and Markets, Albany; Results of Scab Control Experiments in the Hudson valley, D. H. Palmiter, Poughkeepsie; Impressions of Apple Fungicides in 1955, A. B. Burrell, department of plant pathology, Cornell; What Should We Do About the Mildew Problem? W. D. Mills, extension plant pathologist, Cornell; Effect of Pesticides on Yield and Quality of Apples, Michael Szkolnik, Geneva Experment Station; Thinning Apples and Peaches, M. B. Hoffman, department of pomology, Cornell, and Observations on the Effect of Soil Culture on Insect and Disease Control, L. S. Hubbard, Jr., Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Szkolnik called attention to major problems in research involving control of fruit diseases, pointing out that one of the principal problems was control of apple scab and rust diseases. This control is accomplished essentially through spraying according to special spray schedules, he said.

He explained that fungicides were the materials used for disease control and that many outstanding materials were in use today but that the so-called ideal fungicide was still missing.

Mr. Szkolnik explained that existing materials have certain specific drawbacks, representing either weakness in disease control, a tendency to cause injury and incompatibility with other materials used in spray tank and applied on trees. Investigation of new materials is constantly in progress to overcome some of the drawbacks, he said.

Not only is disease control an important factor, he pointed out. A pressing question is the effect of the materials now available, used year after year, on tree growth, fruit set, fruit yield, quality and storage life. In obtaining answers to these questions a number of long-term experiments are under way in the Hudson valley and western New York.

He described a three-year test with sulphur, ferbam, glyodin and captan in both a lead arsenate and parathion insecticide schedule on five varieties of apples. At the end of the period no very significant differences in yield and quality could be demonstrated among the different spray combination plots used, he said. These materials represent the best fungicides and insecticides now available, he said. In all three years there was complete control of both disease and insects, as might be anticipated with these materials, he said.

Mr. Hoffman described experimental work with fruit thinning sprays and the advantages to be realized thereby.

THE EFFECT of the spray—amide, IPC or napthyl phthlamic acid—is to abort the weaker seed just as the petals begin to fall from the blossoms, he said. The measure of thinning depends upon the material used.

He called attention to the advantages in time and labor saving if thinning was induced by spray rather than the old-fashioned method of picking. Mr. Hoffman said some work had been done on pears, cherries, apricots, peaches and other fruits, as well as apples. One of the exhibits, set up by Mr. Hoffman, shows how much superior the fruit is when the tree is thinned. The samples, showing fruit on an unthinned tree, a partly thinned tree and a tree thinned by spray, showed Redhaven peaches, Jonathan, Golden and Delicious apples.

Mr. Palmiter pointed out that this was the season when scab on apples was not too difficult to control, that now fungicides were available that will do the job as long as they are used correctly.

EACH ONE HAS a place in the program, he said. No one of them will do everything so the grower must choose a fungicide in accordance with his problems. He said some scabs had shown up late in the season resulting from heavy hurricane rains in August. He emphasized the need for continued fungicide spraying throughout the season.

Mr. Mills said "powdery mildew has been in New York state over 50 years, largely on nursery stock. It was not a serious problem in commercial bearing orchards until the past two years. During these 50 years the fruit growers shifted from bordeaux mixture to lime sulphurs about 1910-15. The lime sulphur was replaced by elemental sulphurs during the thirties, first in post-bloom sprays and later for all sprays. The elemental sulphurs have been replaced in turn by organic fungicides in the post-bloom sprays during the past decade and very recently for the entire spray program."

HE SAID the recent appearance of mildew in serious amounts may be due to a series of years with weather conditions favorable to mildew, dropping sulphur from spray schedules, recent introduction of mildew susceptible varieties or a higher nitrogen level of the trees under modern cultural methods.

Weather conditions have apparently favored mildew development during the past three years, he said. Substitution of organic fungicides for sulphur in the entire program seems to be definitely involved, both in the Shenandoah - Cumberland area and New York.

Mr. Mills traced the life history and disease development, pointing out that the chief control measure in addition to spraying was pruning. Trees should be kept in moderately good vigor, he said. Slow-growing trees are reported to be more susceptible to mildew. On the other hand a high nitrogen level favors the development of mildew.

HE POINTED OUT that sulphur sprays were superior to copper sprays for control of apple mildew. Lime sulphur is reported to be superior to elemental sulphurs against well-established cases of active mildew. The only organic fungicide so far demonstrated to be valuable in mildew control is dinitro capryl phenyl crotonate sold as Karathane, he said.

Mr. Firth pointed out that the housewife today was getting a much higher quality apple today in the retail packaging market than five years ago, slightly better than a year ago.

He explained how inspectors of the Department of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, had selected the packaged apples in the exhibit at the armory. They were selected by inspectors from retail outlets in various Hudson valley communities and graded according to excellence, good or worthy. Those that failed to meet the grade were left unmarked.

THE SELECTION of the apples was based on the average of any particular lot offered for sale in the retail outlet.

Winners in the contest in the Hudson Valley he announced as follows: First prize, Mills Bros., Middletown, McIntosh apples; second prize, Inderkill Orchards, Staatsburg, Delicious apples, and third prize, Dutchess County Apple Growers Cooperative, Poughkeepsie, Fancy Cortland apples.

Mr. Burrell based his comments mainly on studies at Peru in the Champlain Valley of New York. He pointed out that 1955 was not a hard year in eastern New York to control apple scab but that weather conditions made it a tricky one. "The fungus spores matured rather late. Yet, despite a dry spring in the Hudson Valley a surprising amount of leaf scab appeared in many orchards, calling for a full summer fungicide program to keep it off the fruits."

HE EXPLAINED that the first important scab infection period at Peru was not until May 25, several days after McIntosh petal fall, but during each month thereafter there were wetting periods in late May, four in June, five in July and four in August up to the 16th. "After this date the rains probably were too late to bring about fruit scab. At harvest time a little pinhead scab was found on fruits in a few orchards which had shown very little scab on either leaves or fruits up to that time. The fruit scab in experimental plots, where the final fungicidal spray was on July 8, was almost entirely of this type."

He described the types of sprays used and the pattern of application, pointing out that scab control had been excellent with all materials, although the possibility that more fruit scab could develop in storage could not be denied, since nearly all of what was found consisted of new, very small spots.

Mr. Burrell described some new protectant fungicides used in the Peru experiment and the influence of fungicides on yield, ways of using a fungicide that sometimes has been injurious, the use of eradicants, the importance of fast, early season spraying against scab, the riskiness of day-interval timing, the possibility that growers might be wise to start with new spray nozzles next spring and finally, special problems that might rule out high concentrations.

THE FOLLOWING speakers were scheduled this morning: Carroll Miller, manager of Appalachian Apple Service, Martinsburg, West Va.; Max Brunk, Cornell; Dr. Cameron Garman, Burt; Dr. A. J. Heinicke, director of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, Geneva, and Bennett Dominick, department of agricultural economics, Cornell.

Scheduled this afternoon were the following: Fred Burroughs, International Apple Association, Washington, D. C.; Stanley M. Arnold of Young and Rubicam, New York city; John Chandler, Sterling Junction, Mass.; L. W. Marvin, manager of the New York and New England Apple Institute, and Truman Nold, Washington, D. C.

Also scheduled for this afternoon is an address by Willis D. Phillips, president of the New York State Horticultural Society. Mr. Phillips' address will be read to the meeting since he is attending the national convention of the U. S. Farm Bureau in Chicago.

At 7:45 p. m. today at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Damon Boynton, former director of research for the International American Institute, Costa Rica, will give an illustrated talk on Costa Rican coffee and cocoa.

One of the exhibits, set up by Mr. Hoffman, shows how much superior the fruit is when the tree is thinned. The samples, showing fruit on an unthinned tree, a partly thinned tree and a tree thinned by spray, showed Redhaven peaches, Jonathan, Golden and Delicious apples.

Mr. Palmiter pointed out that this was the season when scab on apples was not too difficult to control, that now fungicides were available that will do the job as long as they are used correctly.

EACH ONE HAS a place in the program, he said. No one of them will do everything so the grower must choose a fungicide in accordance with his problems. He said some scabs had shown up late in the season resulting from heavy hurricane rains in August. He emphasized the need for continued fungicide spraying throughout the season.

Mr. Mills said "powdery mildew has been in New York state over 50 years, largely on nursery stock. It was not a serious problem in commercial bearing orchards until the past two years. During these 50 years the fruit growers shifted from bordeaux mixture to lime sulphurs about 1910-15. The lime sulphur was replaced by elemental sulphurs during the thirties, first in post-bloom sprays and later for all sprays. The elemental sulphurs have been replaced in turn by organic fungicides in the post-bloom sprays during the past decade and very recently for the entire spray program."

HE SAID the recent appearance of mildew in serious amounts may be due to a series of years with weather conditions favorable to mildew, dropping sulphur from spray schedules, recent introduction of mildew susceptible varieties or a higher nitrogen level of the trees under modern cultural methods.

Weather conditions have apparently favored mildew development during the past three years, he said. Substitution of organic fungicides for sulphur in the entire program seems to be definitely involved, both in the Shenandoah - Cumberland area and New York.

Mr. Mills traced the life history and disease development, pointing out that the chief control measure in addition to spraying was pruning. Trees should be kept in moderately good vigor, he said. Slow-growing trees are reported to be more susceptible to mildew. On the other hand a high nitrogen level favors the development of mildew.

HE POINTED OUT that sulphur sprays were superior to copper sprays for control of apple mildew. Lime sulphur is reported to be superior to elemental sulphurs against well-established cases of active mildew. The only organic fungicide so far demonstrated to be valuable in mildew control is dinitro capryl phenyl crotonate sold as Karathane, he said.

Mr. Firth pointed out that the housewife today was getting a much higher quality apple today in the retail packaging market than five years ago, slightly better than a year ago.

He explained how inspectors of the Department of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, had selected the packaged apples in the exhibit at the armory. They were selected by inspectors from retail outlets in various Hudson valley communities and graded according to excellence, good or worthy. Those that failed to meet the grade were left unmarked.

THE SELECTION of the apples was based on the average of any particular lot offered for sale in the retail outlet.

Winners in the contest in the Hudson Valley he announced as follows: First prize, Mills Bros., Middletown, McIntosh apples; second prize, Inderkill Orchards, Staatsburg, Delicious apples, and third prize, Dutchess County Apple Growers Cooperative, Poughkeepsie, Fancy Cortland apples.

Mr. Burrell based his comments mainly on studies at Peru in the Champlain Valley of New York. He pointed out that 1955 was not a hard year in eastern New York to control apple scab but that weather conditions made it a tricky one. "The fungus spores matured rather late. Yet, despite a dry spring in the Hudson Valley a surprising amount of leaf scab appeared in many orchards, calling for a full summer fungicide program to keep it off the fruits."

HE EXPLAINED that the first important scab infection period at Peru was not until May 25, several days after McIntosh petal fall, but during each month thereafter there were wetting periods in late May, four in June, five in July and four in August up to the 16th. "After this date the rains probably were too late to bring about fruit scab. At harvest time a little pinhead scab was found on fruits in a few orchards which had shown very little scab on either leaves or fruits up to that time. The fruit scab in experimental plots, where the final fungicidal spray was on July 8, was almost entirely of this type."

He described the types of sprays used and the pattern of application, pointing out that scab control had been excellent with all materials, although the possibility that more fruit scab could develop in storage could not be denied, since nearly all of what was found consisted of new, very small spots.

Mr. Burrell described some new protectant fungicides used in the Peru experiment and the influence of fungicides on yield, ways of using a fungicide that sometimes has been injurious, the use of eradicants, the importance of fast, early season spraying against scab, the riskiness of day-interval timing, the possibility that growers might be wise to start with new spray nozzles next spring and finally, special problems that might rule out high concentrations.

THE FOLLOWING speakers were scheduled this morning: Carroll Miller, manager of Appalachian Apple Service, Martinsburg, West Va.; Max Brunk, Cornell; Dr. Cameron Garman, Burt; Dr. A. J. Heinicke, director of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, Geneva, and Bennett Dominick, department of agricultural economics, Cornell.

Scheduled this afternoon were the following: Fred Burroughs, International Apple Association, Washington, D. C.; Stanley M. Arnold of Young and Rubicam, New York city; John Chandler, Sterling Junction, Mass.; L. W. Marvin, manager of the New York and New England Apple Institute, and Truman Nold, Washington, D. C.

Also scheduled for this afternoon is an address by Willis D. Phillips, president of the New York State Horticultural Society. Mr. Phillips' address will be read to the meeting since he is attending the national convention of the U. S. Farm Bureau in Chicago.

At 7:45 p. m. today at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Damon Boynton, former director of research for the International American Institute, Costa Rica, will give an illustrated talk on Costa Rican coffee and cocoa.

Predict 1956 Victory

St. Louis, Dec. 15 (AP)—Robert F. Wagner, New York's Democratic mayor, says the Republicans "have no candidate" for the 1956 presidential race "and time is running out for them." "Everywhere I go," Wagner said last night at a Democratic fund-raising dinner, "the thinking of responsible people is that President Eisenhower will not be a candidate for a second term." Wagner and Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler both predicted a Democratic victory in 1956 at the $25 and $100-a-plate dinner attended by party leaders and some 900 persons. Butler declared he "doesn't even give the Republicans a chance in Maine or Vermont in 1956." But he warned, "we will win in 1956 only if we work hard and work together."

Culver City, Calif., Dec. 15 (AP)—"The Flying Crane," Howard Hughes' huge helicopter, lifted a 7,800-pound trailer van in its final tests. A hush-hush project after its conception five years ago, Hughes' whirlybird is the world's largest 'copter. A spokesman for the Hughes Tool Co., said yesterday the trailer van was the largest object ever carried by a 'copter. Designated the XH-17 by the air force, the ship weighs more than 46,000 pounds and has a rotor blade 136 feet long. It is powered by gas turbines and has hit 70 m.p.h. in flight, the company said.

Cold Air Headed For East Coast

(By The Associated Press)

Cold and stormy weather struck broad areas from the Rockies to the Applachians today.

Near blizzard conditions were reported in eastern sections of the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Icy winds sent temperatures tumbling to the lowest marks of the season in many midwest areas. Below zero readings extended from Montana eastward across North Dakota to northern Wisconsin.

The cold air headed for the east coast this morning. The leading edge extended from the Ohio river valley southwestward to extreme southern Texas.

THERE WAS considerable blowing and drifting snow in the Dakotas and Minnesota. Scattered snow flurries fell in the midwest areas during the night, with one inch reported along the Ohio river and in parts of Ohio. The snow fell as far northeastward as New England.

It was 15 degrees below zero this morning at Butte, Mont., and the sub-zero readings ranged to –7 at Dickinson, S. D., and –3 at Eau Claire and Grantsburg, Wis. Temperatures dropped below 10 degrees in Chicago after yesterday's high of 31 and stiff northwesterly winds made it feel much colder. Lower readings were predicted for tonight for north central region.

OUTSIDE the snow belt, only light precipitation was reported. Showers fell in sections of the Pacific northwest and in parts of the southeast.

Warmest readings this morning were along the gulf coast with 63 at Brownsville, Tex., and 70 at Key West, Fla. Other reports: Chicago 9 and partly cloudy; San Francisco 49 and drizzle; Seattle 38 and snow; Des Moines 7 and clear; St. Louis 22 and clear; Springfield, Ill., 15 and clear; Battle Creek, Mich., 15 and snow flurries.

Philippines Celebrate Yule in Different Ways

By DON HUTH

Manila, Dec. 15 (AP)—Contrasting customs of the ancient East and Christian West meet at Christmas time in the Philippines.

Americans, Spanish, English, Indonesians, Malayans, Indians and Chinese have left their imprint on Yuletide celebrations in this young Asian republic. There's a blend of plum pudding and stuffed suckling pigs, pine trees and banana plants, eggnogs and coconut liquor, carolers and predawn dancing, firecrackers and solemn midnight mass processions.

THE PHILIPPINES is the only Roman Catholic country in Asia. It has drawn heavily from the Spanish and Americans in its Christmas festivities. But in remote barrios (villages) throughout the 7,100 islands strange and sometimes pagan customs still form part of this season's activities.

Christmas food has shifted mainly to the favorite Filipino dishes—chicken and pork heavily seasoned with garlic and rice. These feasts usually include lechon, roast suckling pig. Dessert may be an English plum pudding or an American-type pie.

Pine trees from the mountains are trimmed by western standards in large cities. The banana plant is the official Christmas tree in most villages.

ON NEGROS Island in the south, fruit-bearing banana plants are cut. One is placed in each corner of the room and decorated with rice sheaves, coconut clusters and farm products. Visitors can pluck a ripe banana off the tree. Fishermen in Cabangan decorate a tamarind tree with fish.

Christmas Eve processions are common. Young men and women dress as saints in Kawit, Cavite Province. Each rides in a cart drawn through the streets. At the end of the line a cart carries a young couple depicting Mary and Joseph. They go from house to house seeking shelter. The procession ends at the church just before midnight Mass.

The Christmas star participates in a race in Bugason, Antique Province. Lanterns, representing the star, the moon and various planets, are pulled to the church altar on Christmas eve. They remain there until Jan. 6 when they race back to the choir loft. The owner of the winning lantern gets a prize.

THE CHINESE practice of punctuating celebrations with firecrackers has been adopted, too.

Caroling is popular, but has become a nuisance in some communities. They tax caroling groups. Other towns prohibit them.

The Spanish brought the Misa de Gallo (Mass of the Rooster), said in the early morning hours from tomorrow until Christmas. Brass bands parade through the street waking the people. Residents of Candaba, Pamanga Province, hold a dance after this church service from 4 a. m. to 9 a. m. Then they go to work.

AT MAUBAN, Quezon province, Dec. 25 is for the children, Dec. 26 for young men and women and Dec. 27 for married folks and elders.

But in several barrios of Quezon province, Christmas is just another day. They celebrate on Easter Sunday because December is a busy harvesting month.

West Helps South Win

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

There is no getting away from the fact that today's hand is rather badly overbid. North might well have passed to one club instead of showing the heart suit. South might well have bid only two no-trump instead of jumping to game. Since both members of the partnership stretched their values, the result was a contract that was theoretically unmakeable.

As every experienced bridge player knows, there is a gap between theory and practice. South should have been defeated, but he cooked up a clever enough scheme to make his contract.

West opened the seven of spades, East put up the ten, and South won the first trick with the king. There were now only seven tricks in top cards, and South knew that he would need at least a little luck to make his contract.

Hoping for a 3-3 break, South led his three top clubs. Fortunately for him, the suit broke evenly and he was able to lead his last club and win a trick with it.

By this time South was sure of eight tricks, but the ninth trick still looked fairly far away.

After some thought, South decided to return a spade and let West take his tricks. There wasn't much chance for a true squeeze, but there was an excellent chance that West would be afraid to tackle the hearts when he got through with his spade tricks.

Events turned out as South had hoped. West took his four spade tricks but was afraid to lead away from his king of hearts. He therefore led a diamond through East's queen-jack.

This diamond lead gave South the first of two finesses. He could now lead a heart to dummy's ace and take the other diamond finesse thus making his ninth trick.

It is interesting to note that South could not have taken two diamond finesses for himself since there was only one entry to dummy. It was important to get West's cooperation in order to obtain both diamond finesses.

Philippines Celebrate Yule in Different Ways

By DON HUTH

Manila, Dec. 15 (AP)—Contrasting customs of the ancient East and Christian West meet at Christmas time in the Philippines.

Americans, Spanish, English, Indonesians, Malayans, Indians and Chinese have left their imprint on Yuletide celebrations in this young Asian republic. There's a blend of plum pudding and stuffed suckling pigs, pine trees and banana plants, eggnogs and coconut liquor, carolers and predawn dancing, firecrackers and solemn midnight mass processions.

THE PHILIPPINES is the only Roman Catholic country in Asia. It has drawn heavily from the Spanish and Americans in its Christmas festivities. But in remote barrios (villages) throughout the 7,100 islands strange and sometimes pagan customs still form part of this season's activities.

Christmas food has shifted mainly to the favorite Filipino dishes—chicken and pork heavily seasoned with garlic and rice. These feasts usually include lechon, roast suckling pig. Dessert may be an English plum pudding or an American-type pie.

Pine trees from the mountains are trimmed by western standards in large cities. The banana plant is the official Christmas tree in most villages.

ON NEGROS Island in the south, fruit-bearing banana plants are cut. One is placed in each corner of the room and decorated with rice sheaves, coconut clusters and farm products. Visitors can pluck a ripe banana off the tree. Fishermen in Cabangan decorate a tamarind tree with fish.

Christmas Eve processions are common. Young men and women dress as saints in Kawit, Cavite Province. Each rides in a cart drawn through the streets. At the end of the line a cart carries a young couple depicting Mary and Joseph. They go from house to house seeking shelter. The procession ends at the church just before midnight Mass.

The Christmas star participates in a race in Bugason, Antique Province. Lanterns, representing the star, the moon and various planets, are pulled to the church altar on Christmas eve. They remain there until Jan. 6 when they race back to the choir loft. The owner of the winning lantern gets a prize.

THE CHINESE practice of punctuating celebrations with firecrackers has been adopted, too.

Caroling is popular, but has become a nuisance in some communities. They tax caroling groups. Other towns prohibit them.

The Spanish brought the Misa de Gallo (Mass of the Rooster), said in the early morning hours from tomorrow until Christmas. Brass bands parade through the street waking the people. Residents of Candaba, Pamanga Province, hold a dance after this church service from 4 a. m. to 9 a. m. Then they go to work.

AT MAUBAN, Quezon province, Dec. 25 is for the children, Dec. 26 for young men and women and Dec. 27 for married folks and elders.

But in several barrios of Quezon province, Christmas is just another day. They celebrate on Easter Sunday because December is a busy harvesting month.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

West Helps South Win

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

There is no getting away from the fact that today's hand is rather badly overbid. North might well have passed to one club instead of showing the heart suit. South might well have bid only two no-trump instead of jumping to game. Since both members of the partnership stretched their values, the result was a contract that was theoretically unmakeable.

As every experienced bridge player knows, there is a gap between theory and practice. South should have been defeated, but he cooked up a clever enough scheme to make his contract.

West opened the seven of spades, East put up the ten, and South won the first trick with the king. There were now only seven tricks in top cards, and South knew that he would need

	NORTH	15
	♥ A 9 7 6 3
	♦ 6 4 3

at least a little luck to make his contract.

Hoping for a 3-3 break, South led his three top clubs. Fortunately for him, the suit broke evenly and he was able to lead his last club and win a trick with it.

By this time South was sure of eight tricks, but the ninth trick still looked fairly far away.

After some thought, South decided to return a spade and let West take his tricks. There wasn't much chance for a true squeeze, but there was an excellent chance that West would be afraid to tackle the hearts when he got through with his spade tricks.

Events turned out as South had hoped. West took his four spade tricks but was afraid to lead away from his king of hearts. He therefore led a diamond through East's queen-jack.

This diamond lead gave South the first of two finesses. He could now lead a heart to dummy's ace and take the other diamond finesse thus making his ninth trick.

It is interesting to note that South could not have taken two diamond finesses for himself since there was only one entry to dummy. It was important to get West's cooperation in order to obtain both diamond finesses.

Two Are Hurt Near Saugerties

Two persons suffered minor injuries at 11:30 p. m. yesterday in a mishap on Route 9W about a mile south of Saugerties involving an Ulster county stake truck and two passenger cars.

They were Maria Crispino, 32, of Glasco, who suffered cheek lacerations, and George DeCicco, 28, of RD 1, with lacerations of the fingers on his right hand, Kingston State Police reported.

Troopers Raymond Kowalsky and William Shurter, who investigated, reported that a 1939 stake truck operated by Isaac Jones, 43, of Kingston, a 1955 sedan operated by Mrs. Crispino and a second 1955 sedan operated by Robert Stutz, 28, of Norristown, Pa., were involved.

THE TRUCK was traveling north around a slight curve about 20 MPH salting the center lane, troopers said. There was a light surface of snow on the highway.

U. S. Blasts . . .

sion which is to be concluded this week.

White said he assumed that various countries were urging the Soviets to do this. He also spoke of "the tremendous pressure of world opinion" on Russia.

In Tokyo, U. S. Ambassador John M. Allison called on Foreign Minister Shigemitsu and said the United States is "extremely sorry" that Russia has once more vetoed Japan's admission to the UN, White reported.

WHILE WHITE spoke in response to a reporter's inquiry, his statement had been carefully prepared beforehand. It conveyed the impression the State Department believes Russia blocked Japan in order to hold a club over Soviet-Japanese peace treaty bargaining rather than primarily to compensate for the loss of Soviet-sponsored Outer Mongolia from the list of new members.

White said the United States is "greatly pleased" about the admission of new members, including 12 free countries to the United Nations "despite continued Soviet obstruction over the past nine years, including the casting of 45 vetoes on admission of new members."

These countries, White went on, "should increase considerably the vitality and usefulness" of the world organization.

"One glaring injustice remains," he said. "As Ambassador John Allison informed the Japanese foreign minister early today we are extremely sorry that the Soviet Union has once again seen fit to veto Japan's admission to the United Nations."

Two Are Hurt Near Saugerties

Two persons suffered minor injuries at 11:30 p. m. yesterday in a mishap on Route 9W about a mile south of Saugerties involving an Ulster county stake truck and two passenger cars.

They were Maria Crispino, 32, of Glasco, who suffered cheek lacerations, and George DeCicco, 28, of RD 1, with lacerations of the fingers on his right hand, Kingston State Police reported.

Troopers Raymond Kowalsky and William Shurter, who investigated, reported that a 1939 stake truck operated by Isaac Jones, 43, of Kingston, a 1955 sedan operated by Mrs. Crispino and a second 1955 sedan operated by Robert Stutz, 28, of Norristown, Pa., were involved.

THE TRUCK was traveling north around a slight curve about 20 MPH salting the center lane, troopers said. There was a light surface of snow on the highway.

The Crispino car, traveling south, was proceeding about 25 MPH when its left side hit the left front fender of the truck. The car skidded around, crossed the northbound lane. The Stutz car, traveling north about 20 MPH behind the truck, skidded when Mr. Stutz applied his brakes, his left front striking the right front of the Crispino vehicle, according to troopers.

MAN AMONG BOYS—Larry Schlosser, 13, is a man among the boys at Grove City (Ohio) High School. Larry, pictured above with his golden trophy, won a state tractor-pulling contest at Circleville. He even beat his dad—and used his dad's tractor to do it. He pulled in the 8000-pound class, tops in the field. His dad worked in the 6000-pound event, missing out on second place by an inch and a half. Larry has his own tractor, but in this contest against 21 experienced men, he elected to use his father's. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schlosser, of the Columbus suburb.

White said he assumed that various countries were urging the Soviets to do this. He also spoke of "the tremendous pressure of world opinion" on Russia.

In Tokyo, U. S. Ambassador John M. Allison called on Foreign Minister Shigemitsu and said the United States is "extremely sorry" that Russia has once more vetoed Japan's admission to the UN, White reported.

WHILE WHITE spoke in response to a reporter's inquiry, his statement had been carefully prepared beforehand. It conveyed the impression the State Department believes Russia blocked Japan in order to hold a club over Soviet-Japanese peace treaty bargaining rather than primarily to compensate for the loss of Soviet-sponsored Outer Mongolia from the list of new members.

White said the United States is "greatly pleased" about the admission of new members, including 12 free countries to the United Nations "despite continued Soviet obstruction over the past nine years, including the casting of 45 vetoes on admission of new members."

These countries, White went on, "should increase considerably the vitality and usefulness" of the world organization.

"One glaring injustice remains," he said. "As Ambassador John Allison informed the Japanese foreign minister early today we are extremely sorry that the Soviet Union has once again seen fit to veto Japan's admission to the United Nations."

Santa Will Tour Ulster 5 Area SaturdayMorning

As in past years, Ulster Hose Company No. 5 will be host to Santa Claus on his yearly visit to the Town of Ulster Fire District No. 5 and its Protection District when he comes bearing a gift for each child.

On Dec. 17 at 8 a. m. Santa will start his rounds on the big red fire truck at the Kingston City Line and continue northward up and down each street toward the IBM plant and will lunch at the Airport Inn. The traditional mascot of all fire companies, the coach dog owned by the proprietor of the Airport Inn, will accompany Santa on his tour. After lunch, the party will continue on its way through the district with a final stop at the Children's Home on East Chester street. After a ride through the uptown shopping district of Kingston, Santa will return to the firehouse on Albany avenue extension and bid his firemen friends farewell until next year.

In his annual instructions Santa has requested that in the case of people residing on dead end streets, when the parents hear the siren and the music of the sound truck, they arrange to have their children out at the corner in order to save time. The area has expanded much in the past year and there will be many extra stops.

In case of stormy weather the visit will come on the next day.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

You'll find attractive buys in pork, beef, veal and lamb in many of the nation's food stores this weekend.

Meat prices in general are still heading lower, and judging from the record pileup of supplies, the end is not yet in sight. Last week production of government-inspected meat set an all-time record. All told, 257,000 tons of pork, beef and other meats were processed by the nation's packing plants. Pork accounted for nearly half the record total.

FOR THE COMING week-end one of the big food chains has trimmed prices of center cut pork chops in several major cities by amounts ranging from 6 to 19 cents a pound.

Lamb is down anywhere from 2 to 6 cents a pound. While beef prices are resisting the downward pull a little more effectively than pork and lamb, there are bargains aplenty in everything from hamburger and boneless chuck pot roast to fancy porterhouse steaks.

While the meat glut is good news to the bargain-conscious housewife, it's a growing problem for the farmer, the packer and the retailer. No less than three meat merchandising campaigns have been scheduled for early 1956 by the National Assn. of Food Chains. Aim is to get people to eat more meat. The major campaign, scheduled for Jan. 26 to Feb. 4, will concern itself with pork. Others will be devoted to corn-fed beef and veal calves (Jan. 9 to 18) and ham and lamb (March 22 to 31).

While per capita consumption of meat showed a gain of 11 per cent this fall, the association believes an extra promotion effort by retailers will be needed to avert a crisis in the livestock industry next year. Record production of meat products is expected for each.

PORK HAS BEEN selected by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as its food headliner for this week. Department specialists suggest roast pork as the main course for your Christmas dinner. "Roast pork for the main dish fits right into the festive spirit," the USDA says. "Good to look at, and pleasing to eat, a piping hot pork roast does honor to any table."

There's a wide assortment of bargains this week in produce. The Department of Agriculture has singled out potatoes, rutabaga turnips and white turnips, beets, topped carrots, baby parsnips and kale as outstanding vegetable buys. Listed as good buys are new and old cabbage, beans, peppers, corn, egg plant, pascal celery, and lettuce.

APPLES ARE STILL plentiful and reasonably priced, as are oranges, seedless grapefruit and tangerines from Florida and large Red Emperor grapes from the west coast. Pineapples from Cuba are featured in some stores; in New York, they're priced at about 23 cents each.

Americans are eating less fruit than they used to. The total quantity of fresh and processed fruit consumed in the United States is about the same today as it was 10 years ago, government statisticians say, but the population has increased mightily in that time, so per capita consumption has fallen. While use of frozen fruits and juices has climbed sharply, this gain has been more than offset by declines for canned, dried and fresh fruits. Consumption of fresh oranges, peaches and pears is down sharply.

Add to your list of fruits in plentiful supply right now: Winter pears, dates, cranberries.

Please Don't Shoot

Ogallala, Neb. (AP)—Jack Lanigan, hearing a rustling along the well of his hardware store, discovered a live hen pheasant crouched in an open cabinet among the shotgun shells. The bird had flown in from the country where pheasant shooting was in full sway and sought refuge where the shells were the thickest.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

You'll find attractive buys in pork, beef, veal and lamb in many of the nation's food stores this weekend.

Meat prices in general are still heading lower, and judging from the record pileup of supplies, the end is not yet in sight. Last week production of government-inspected meat set an all-time record. All told, 257,000 tons of pork, beef and other meats were processed by the nation's packing plants. Pork accounted for nearly half the record total.

FOR THE COMING week-end one of the big food chains has trimmed prices of center cut pork chops in several major cities by amounts ranging from 6 to 19 cents a pound.

Lamb is down anywhere from 2 to 6 cents a pound. While beef prices are resisting the downward pull a little more effectively than pork and lamb, there are bargains aplenty in everything from hamburger and boneless chuck pot roast to fancy porterhouse steaks.

While the meat glut is good news to the bargain-conscious housewife, it's a growing problem for the farmer, the packer and the retailer. Noel Pudding, Light, Sweet, Will Delight Children

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For the young children gathered round the Christmas table, a light textured dessert is better than a heavy one. We think this recipe, a variation of floating island, is just the right answer. Grownups can enjoy it, too.

Noel Pudding (Makes 8 servings)

Three tablespoons sugar, 1 quart liquefied instant nonfat dry milk, 6 egg whites, 1½ teaspoons cream of tartar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, 6 egg yolks, slightly beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, ½ teaspoon almond extract.

Dissolve 3 tablespoons sugar in liquefied instant nonfat dry milk in large skillet; heat over very low heat, to scalding point. Remove from heat. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy. Add 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition; beat until meringue forms stiff peaks. Shape meringue into balls using a lightly-oiled teacup; round the bottom of each. Loosen with small spatula; set balls gently on hot nonfat dry milk mixture, adding only a few balls at a time. Keep balls apart. Cook over low heat, uncovered without turning, five minutes. Carefully remove balls with a slotted spatula or spoon; place cooked side down on a tea towel tightly stretched over 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Chill. Place egg yolks in the top of a 1-quart double boiler. Strain nonfat dry milk mixture; gradually stir into egg yolks. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture is slightly thickened and coats a spoon. Remove from heat. Add flavorings. Pour into 8 custard cups. Chill. When ready to serve, lift balls with a moistened spatula; place on custards. Decorate each with thinly sliced red and green maraschino cherries to form holly sprig.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Tomato juice, scalloped oysters, parsley potatoes, carrots and peas, toasted rolls, butter or margarine, cole slaw, Noel pudding, coffee, tea, milk.

½ teaspoon almond flavoring

Dice ¼ cup cherries, save rest for decorating. Dice citron and lemon peel. Add to diced cherries. Add raisins. Pour grape juice over fruit. Let stand 1 hour. Sift ¾ cup sifted flour with mace, cinnamon, baking soda. Combine remaining ¼ cup flour with fruit. Add walnuts to fruit mixture. Cream butter. Add granulated and dark brown sugar gradually, creaming until mixture is smooth and light. Beat eggs. Add with milk and flavoring to butter mixture, blend well. Pour batter over fruit mixture. Mix thoroughly. Fill 2½" diameter paper baking cups ¾ full. Place cups on cooky sheet, bake in slow oven (300°F.) 45 min. Remove and brush top of each cake lightly with milk. Decorate with remaining cherries and additional nuts. Return to oven, bake another 15 min. Cool thoroughly on cooling rack before storing. Yield: Approx. 17 cakes.

Installment Plan Immigration

Canada Arranges Ship Fares To Bring in 768,000 Workers

Ottawa, Ot., Dec. 15 (AP)—A worker can immigrate to Canada on the instalment plan.

This country has taken in 768,000 immigrants in the last four years. About 32,000 of these lacked money for their fares. The government advanced the money with interest-free loans, to be repaid in two years after the immigrant became established.

MORE THAN 29,000 of the loans have been repaid in full. Most of the others are in the process of repayment.

The plans aims to ease the migration of desirable immigrants. It is directed particularly at those fitted to enter labor-short fields in Canada, including farm workers, domestic, teachers and nurses.

Transportation warrants up to the full amount of the fare may be lent to immigrants who qualify. Where families are concerned, the loan is made to the working member to come to Canada in advance of his relatives, get settled and send for them later.

The loans average $140 to $150.

THE IMMIGRANT'S Canadian employer agrees to make deductions from his salary until the loan is repaid.

Farm workers make up 31 per cent of the immigrants helped this way in the last four year. Domestics from 22 per cent and the other 47 per cent include nurses, nurses' aides and teachers. Stenographers and typists, mainly from the United Kingdom, also have come to Canada on assisted-passage loans.

More than 25,000 of the assisted immigrants came from Germany and Austria. More than 5,000 were from the British Isles, and others from France, Sweden, Belgium, Switzerland, Holland, Denmark and Greece.

HAPPIER NOW—Eleanor Powell, once billed by Hollywood as "the world's greatest tap dancer," is now a Bible teacher conducting a religious TV show for children in Los Angeles, Calif. She denies planning a movie comeback, saying she's happier now as Mrs. Glenn Ford, working with children, than she was working in movies.

NAM Would Welcome Labor 'Peace' Talk

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—An official of the National Assn. of Manufacturers says it would welcome a "peace" talk with the AFL-CIO but would like a "definite proposal" from the labor group's president, George Meany.

Samuel L. H. Burk, director of the NAM's industrial relations division, was a witness yesterday at a public hearing of the state joint legislative committee on industrial and labor relations.

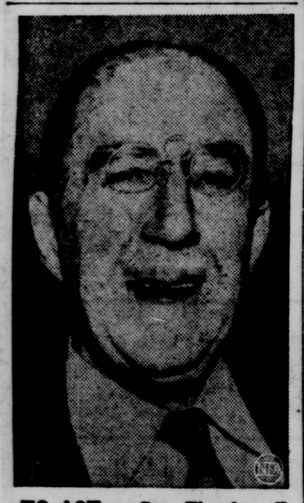
Burk said Meany "made no definite peace proposal" in his speech last Friday before the NAM convention.

"The nearest he came to offering an olive branch to industry," said Burk, "was his reference to a 'greater understanding of the trade union movement,' and his statement that labor and management have so much in common that there are very compelling reasons for cooperation between them."

Air Strike Ends

Chicago, Dec. 15 (AP)—A seven-weeks strike of flight engineers against United Air Lines ended last night. An air line spokesman said a settlement negotiated in Washington provides that the 22 strikers will be returned to the payroll "on or before Dec. 19 without discrimination or disciplinary action."

In Australia, a baby kangaroo usually is spoken of as a "Joey."



TO ACT — Sen. Theodore F. Green (D-RI) says he'll introduce legislation next year to help determine when a president is unable to perform his duties. In 1949 he wanted a joint congressional committee to study the problem, the idea passed the Senate but died in the House.

Dog Admitted

Houston, Tex., Dec. 15 (AP)—Punch, a 20-month-old German sheperd Seeing Eye dog, was admitted to Jefferson Davis Hospital yesterday with the privilege of bedding down in his owner's room. Hospital officials slashed red tape and a long standing rule against dogs to reunite Punch and Elbert Spencer, his blind owner. When Spencer was admitted Monday to the hospital for eye treatment, Punch defied all efforts to calm him or coax him to eat. Tuesday night he had a convulsion. In arranging for Punch to have hospital privileges, Spencer's physician said "it's best for both the patient and the dog. Spencer was nervous and upset over the animal and it was becoming difficut to treat him. The dog was becoming ill and it would be criminal to let anything happen to a very intelligent and highly trained animal like him."

Can't See Son

Indianapolis, Dec. 15 (AP)—A pharmacist who liked to play ball with his son and teach him scriptures has been ordered to stop seeing the boy after court testimony that 10-year-old John A. Bennett was being torn emotionally by two kinds of religious teachings. Superior Judge John L. Niblack yesterday found John E. Bennett of Clermont, Ind., a Jehovah Witness, in contempt of court because he refused to obey an earlier court order to cease "disturbing" the boy with conflicting teachings. Bennett testified he was "obliged by Almighty God" to give his son religious instruction "morning, noon and night."

$145,000 Award

San Francisco, Dec. 15 (AP)—A Superior Court jury yesterday awarded $145,000 to 16-year-old Dale Stopp, whose legs were cut off by a Southern Pacific passenger train. Dale and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin J. Stopp of Redwood City, had sued the railroad for $350,000. Dale, standing near a coach door when the train slowed for Redwood City, was thrown out and his legs cut off. The suit charged the railroad was negligent in leaving the door open and the vestibule unguarded.

CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., THURSDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 15, 1955. TWENTY-ONE

Council Organizes

Cincinnati, Dec. 15 (AP)—Cincinnati's city government was reorganized yesterday with a member of its famed Taft family as mayor and, for the first time in history, a Negro as its vice-mayor. The city council, finally seated after a two-week recount of the votes cast in the Nov. 8 election, elected Charles P. Taft as mayor and Theodore Berry as vice-mayor. The council has a 5-4 Charter Party majority. The Charter Party is a combination of liberal Republicans and Democrats. Taft, a Republican in state and national politics, long has been a Charter Party member. He was the Republican nominee for governor in 1952.

Push-Button Warfare Comes High

Billion Dollar Hike for Defense Dims Hope for Tax Cut Next Year

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Push-button warfare comes high. The indicated rise of one billion dollars in spending for defense dims the hope of businessmen today that the heavy load of taxation that business carries will be lightened.

The increasing costliness of today's super-complex weapons may also cut the chances of the individual taxpayer for much relief soon.

If you must blame someone, blame the scientists—their ideas grow costlier.

BUSINESS HOPES for tax relief had grown out of the business boom itself. Gross earnings are so remarkably good and payrolls so high that the U. S. Treasury stands to take in next spring a billion or two more in tax collections than it had counted on when the budget was drawn up a year ago.

This golden flow seemed sure to balance the budget and perhaps leave room for tax relief—most likely at the individual income tax level, and possibly at the corporate income and excise tax level.

That was before the Russians turned their smiles in other directions and returned to calling Uncle Sam and his friends bad names. Defense needs are more apparent now than in the days of the "spirit of Geneva."

BUT THE REAL coup de grace to the hopes that defense costs could be cut—rather than raised, as they now seem likely to be—was given by the scientists in our laboratories and testing grounds.

The new weapons of offense and defense that are being perfected in the age of atomic warfare and guided missiles come with ever higher price tags. You can cut down the number of men in the armed forces but the cost of fitting them for Buck Rogers type warfare mounts more rapidly than the savings at pay call.

Businessmen have seen the scientists do the same thing to them.

The days when a firm made one product year after year—maybe, generation after generation—are fast fading.

THIS YEAR'S gasoline has a higher octane rating than last. The drugs that grandfather used are overshadowed on the shelves by ones he never heard tell of. The kitchen you considered a simple necessity would have been unbelievable to great grandmother.

Research has come to play an increasingly important part in the highly competitive business world. The engineer and the scientist has come out of the laboratory and into the board of directors room.

The big corporations plan their spending, their production schedules and their sales drives years in advance—and they leave plenty of elbow room in their budget calculations for the new products and the new techniques which they are confident their research departments will think up.

ALL OF THIS costs business plenty. The cars, appliances and other durable goods you buy today cost more than they used. Part of this, to be sure, is because of inflation which has clipped the buying power of the dollar. Part is traceable to higher labor costs.

But much of it is due simply to the fact that today's gadgets are more complicated and scientifically advanced than the ones dad bought in the good old days—ones that you wouldn't buy today even if they were offered at a comparably lower price.

And so it is with defense. The price of a guided missile would buy trainloads of Springfield rifles.

If the cold war is back, as it seems to be, and Congress passes a 35½ billion dollar defense budget to be ready in a push-button age, business—and maybe you, too—will probably have to put your tax cut hopes off another year.

Three Admit Having Illegal Alcohol

New York, Dec. 14 (Special)—Pleas of guilty to one count of a three-count indictment charging them with possessing and transporting untaxpaid alcohol were entered in Federal Court here today by Lawrence Addis of Route 55, Kerhonkson, John Pivin, of Route 52, Greenfield Park, and Carmelo Cosentino of Newburgh.

The three admitted having had three five-gallon cans of the alcohol on June 28, 1953.

The two remaining counts, one charging Addis with having a five-gallon can on March 6, 1953, and one citing Cosentino for possessing two one-gallon cans on December 30, 1953, were dismissed by the government.

According to Assistant U. S. Attorney Robert Kirtland, the three were picked up after having been spotted passing the alcohol in an automobile.

They will be sentenced January 11 by Judges Thomas F. Murphy.

Paper May Close

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—The weekly Rochester Sun, which has published since 1937, will go out of business Dec. 22 unless it is sold in the meantime, Publisher G. Curtis Gerling said last night. Gerling said the "rising cost of newsprint" made it "economically unfeasible" to continue operations.

Reported Transferred

Wiesbaden, Germany, Dec. 15 (AP)—Otto John, turncoat former West German intelligence chief, was reported transferred today from Bonn to the federal criminal police headquarters in Wiesbaden for further questioning. Hermann Dullien, head of the criminal police, refused to confirm or deny the report. John, 46, deserted to Communist East Germany July 20, 1954, and returned to West Germany Monday.

Council Organizes

Cincinnati, Dec. 15 (AP)—Cincinnati's city government was reorganized yesterday with a member of its famed Taft family as mayor and, for the first time in history, a Negro as its vice-mayor. The city council, finally seated after a two-week recount of the votes cast in the Nov. 8 election, elected Charles P. Taft as mayor and Theodore Berry as vice-mayor. The council has a 5-4 Charter Party majority. The Charter Party is a combination of liberal Republicans and Democrats. Taft, a Republican in state and national politics, long has been a Charter Party member. He was the Republican nominee for governor in 1952.

Push-Button Warfare Comes High

Billion Dollar Hike for Defense Dims Hope for Tax Cut Next Year

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Push-button warfare comes high. The indicated rise of one billion dollars in spending for defense dims the hope of businessmen today that the heavy load of taxation that business carries will be lightened.

The increasing costliness of today's super-complex weapons may also cut the chances of the individual taxpayer for much relief soon.

If you must blame someone, blame the scientists—their ideas grow costlier.

BUSINESS HOPES for tax relief had grown out of the business boom itself. Gross earnings are so remarkably good and payrolls so high that the U. S. Treasury stands to take in next spring a billion or two more in tax collections than it had counted on when the budget was drawn up a year ago.

This golden flow seemed sure to balance the budget and perhaps leave room for tax relief—most likely at the individual income tax level, and possibly at the corporate income and excise tax level.

That was before the Russians turned their smiles in other directions and returned to calling Uncle Sam and his friends bad names. Defense needs are more apparent now than in the days of the "spirit of Geneva."

BUT THE REAL coup de grace to the hopes that defense costs could be cut—rather than raised, as they now seem likely to be—was given by the scientists in our laboratories and testing grounds.

The new weapons of offense and defense that are being perfected in the age of atomic warfare and guided missiles come with ever higher price tags. You can cut down the number of men in the armed forces but the cost of fitting them for Buck Rogers type warfare mounts more rapidly than the savings at pay call.

Businessmen have seen the scientists do the same thing to them.

The days when a firm made one product year after year—maybe, generation after generation—are fast fading.

THIS YEAR'S gasoline has a higher octane rating than last. The drugs that grandfather used are overshadowed on the shelves by ones he never heard tell of. The kitchen you consider a simple necessity would have been unbelievable to great grandmother.

Research has come to play an increasingly important part in the highly competitive business world. The engineer and the scientist has come out of the laboratory and into the board of directors room.

The big corporations plan their spending, their production schedules and their sales drives years in advance—and they leave plenty of elbow room in their budget calculations for the new products and the new techniques which they are confident their research departments will think up.

ALL OF THIS costs business plenty. The cars, appliances and other durable goods you buy today cost more than they used. Part of this, to be sure, is because of inflation which has clipped the buying power of the dollar. Part is traceable to higher labor costs.

But much of it is due simply to the fact that today's gadgets are more complicated and scientifically advanced than the ones dad bought in the good old days—ones that you wouldn't buy today even if they were offered at a comparably lower price.

And so it is with defense. The price of a guided missile would buy trainloads of Springfield rifles.

If the cold war is back, as it seems to be, and Congress passes a 35½ billion dollar defense budget to be ready in a push-button age, business—and maybe you, too—will probably have to put your tax cut hopes off another year.

Three Admit Having Illegal Alcohol

New York, Dec. 14 (Special)—Pleas of guilty to one count of a three-count indictment charging them with possessing and transporting untaxpaid alcohol were entered in Federal Court here today by Lawrence Addis of Route 55, Kerhonkson, John Pivin, of Route 52, Greenfield Park, and Carmelo Cosentino of Newburgh.

The three admitted having had three five-gallon cans of the alcohol on June 28, 1953.

The two remaining counts, one charging Addis with having a five-gallon can on March 6, 1953, and one citing Cosentino for possessing two one-gallon cans on December 30, 1953, were dismissed by the government.

According to Assistant U. S. Attorney Robert Kirtland, the three were picked up after having been spotted passing the alcohol in an automobile.

They will be sentenced January 11 by Judges Thomas F. Murphy.

Paper May Close

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—The weekly Rochester Sun, which has published since 1937, will go out of business Dec. 22 unless it is sold in the meantime, Publisher G. Curtis Gerling said last night. Gerling said the "rising cost of newsprint" made it "economically unfeasible" to continue operations.

Reported Transferred

Wiesbaden, Germany, Dec. 15 (AP)—Otto John, turncoat former West German intelligence chief, was reported transferred today from Bonn to the federal criminal police headquarters in Wiesbaden for further questioning. Hermann Dullien, head of the criminal police, refused to confirm or deny the report. John, 46, deserted to Communist East Germany July 20, 1954, and returned to West Germany Monday.

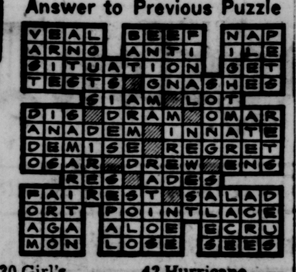
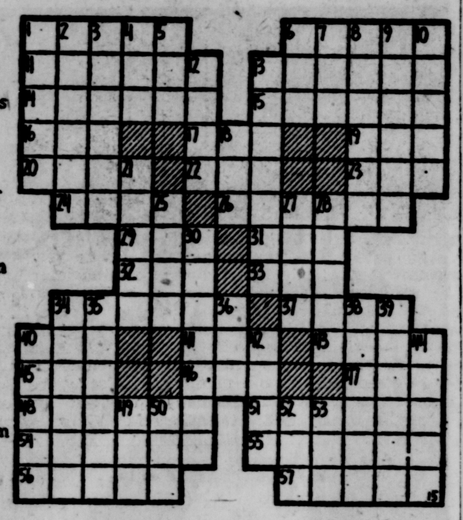
Answer to Previous Puzzle





June Likely to Bring Adlai, Estes Contest

(By The Associated Press)

California's June primary seemed likely today to produce a headon contest between Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson listed California yesterday as one of four additional states in which he will seek pre-convention voter support.

A short time later, Kefauver wound up a week's stay in the politically important state by announcing he too will enter the California primary if he decides to run for President.

THE TENNESSEE senator says he'll declare formally tomorrow whether he'll seek the party nomination he bid for unsuccessfully in 1952. Few will be surprised if he tries again.

Kefauver has accused California Democratic leaders of trying to freeze him out of the state primary next year. Some top Democrats there have come out for Stevenson.

Stevenson added Florida, Pennsylvania, and Illinois, as well as California, to the list of states where he plans to run in the primaries. Previously he had named only Minnesota.

The 1952 Democratic presidential nominee said he picked these contests so voters could show preference "on a regional basis in the east, midwest, south and west." He said he would decide about other primaries later.

CALIFORNIA, with 68 votes at the Democratic national convention next August, is the richest political plum from the west. And the five-state total on Stevenson's list is 264 votes, more than a third of the 687 convention votes needed to nominate.

In 58-vote Ohio, not on Stevenson's list so far, Gov. Frank Lausche announced he is willing to be his state's "favorite son" candidate at the Democratic convention.

Whether the five-term governor would remain in the secondary role traditionally accorded "favorite son" candidates remained to be seen. Some Democratic leaders outside of Ohio have mentioned the governor as a possible dark horse winner at the convention.

ON THE REPUBLICAN side friends of Sen. Knowland (Calif.) said in Washington they believe the GOP Senate leader will be an active aspirant for the presidential nomination early next year.

The Knowland backers professed confidence that President Eisenhower will decide against seeking reelection, and that Eisenhower will make his decision known some time next month as Knowland has been urging. Knowland himself declined public comment.

Harold E. Stassen, Eisenhower's special assistant on disarmament, told a Young Republican Club gathering in New York city it is "unseemly and unwise" to press Eisenhower to seek reelection. And he renewed his contention that the President could reasonably "wait until June or July" before announcing whether he'll run again.

WITH EISENHOWER resting at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, newsmen turned to White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty to find out whether the President has called Averell Harriman a "Park Avenue Truman."

Hagerty wasn't saying yes or no about this comment Eisenhower reportedly made about the New York governor while conferring with GOP congressional leaders Monday. Nor would Hagerty say whether he or the President does regard the wealthy Harriman as a Truman from Park Avenue, a New York city high rent district.

Said Harriman through his Albany headquarters: "I'm always glad to have my name associated with that of former President Truman."

Harriman, who is expected to be a candidate for President at the 1956 Democratic convention, also took a swing at the Eisenhower administration in addressing a Burlington, Vt., party rally. He said the recent Senate hearings on General Motors "have shown the inroads being made by monopoly and bigness under the Republicans."

Whether the five-term governor would remain in the secondary role traditionally accorded "favorite son" candidates remained to be seen. Some Democratic leaders outside of Ohio have mentioned the governor as a possible dark horse winner at the convention.

ON THE REPUBLICAN side friends of Sen. Knowland (Calif.) said in Washington they believe the GOP Senate leader will be an active aspirant for the presidential nomination early next year.

The Knowland backers professed confidence that President Eisenhower will decide against seeking reelection, and that Eisenhower will make his decision known some time next month as Knowland has been urging. Knowland himself declined public comment.

Harold E. Stassen, Eisenhower's special assistant on disarmament, told a Young Republican Club gathering in New York city it is "unseemly and unwise" to press Eisenhower to seek reelection. And he renewed his contention that the President could reasonably "wait until June or July" before announcing whether he'll run again.

WITH EISENHOWER resting at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, newsmen turned to White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty to find out whether the President has called Averell Harriman a "Park Avenue Truman."

Hagerty wasn't saying yes or no about this comment Eisenhower reportedly made about the New York governor while conferring with GOP congressional leaders Monday. Nor would Hagerty say whether he or the President does regard the wealthy Harriman as a Truman from Park Avenue, a New York city high rent district.

Said Harriman through his Albany headquarters: "I'm always glad to have my name associated with that of former President Truman."

Harriman, who is expected to be a candidate for President at the 1956 Democratic convention, also took a swing at the Eisenhower administration in addressing a Burlington, Vt., party rally. He said the recent Senate hearings on General Motors "have shown the inroads being made by monopoly and bigness under the Republicans."

sioner of Vehicles regarding use of a designated plate to be used on the cars of members of the police association. It was reported there was no provision in the motor vehicle law which prohibited such plate, provided it was of a different color than the registration plate.

There was a discussion on whether there was need for deputizing fire chiefs to give them police power and it was the opinion of the members that the power of arrest at fires was now included in their rights. In case of violations or interference with fire equipment, it was stated, fire chiefs now had power to make arrests. The matter of making all fire police special deputies was discussed. It was the opinion of members that fire police should have power of peace officers.

The meeting was adjourned out of respect to the memory of Walter Simpson of New Paltz, a member of the association.

The February meeting will be held at Modena unless a special meeting is called prior to that date. Refreshments were served by the Highland department.

Indications . . .

required for final granting of the application.

AN APPLICATION by the Catholic Daughters of America to erect a building on Andrew street, near Peter street, and one for the building of a private garage on the property of Donato Capurso, 249 Broadway were also aired at last night's hearing.

The zoning board granted permission for the building of the garage, but the board gave no decision on the other application pending inspection of the Andrew street site.

If all is found satisfactory the petitioner will apply for a permit and a notice will be served to residents of the area. City Judge Raymond J. Mino and Architect Albert Milliken, appeared for the organization.

Economics . . .

cement bags were filled.

THE GROUP ate at a restaurant a block and a half away from the Detroit plant, Perry said, and there were no signs that a cement plant was near it. The Detroit plant is right in the city and has residences all around it, he said.

James P. Fiore, fifth ward supervisor, who also went on the Detroit trip said the group saw all phases of operation, and William Sinsabaugh, who also went on the trip, said the plant had not had a layoff since 1935, it had worked 1,000 days without a lost-time accident. Recently, he said, $672,000 was split as a bonus between 425 men.

Attorney Campochiaro said bringing the plant here would afford a great opportunity for employment of men and would be an economic asset to the area.

Attorney Jacob Gutstein, who said he had worked with Sam Rosoff on area projects, noted those who would bring the plant here, wanted to make their homes in the community.

John N. Cordts, one of those present concerned about effects of blasting, told of the effects of blasting on properties in the eight and ninth wards, and said he would not like to have more of it in the downtown area.

OTHER RESIDENTS of the downtown area who spoke were Mrs. R. H. VanValkenburgh, and Oscar J. Lawatsch.

Alderman-at-large Kelly explained that last night's hearing was not one for legislating on the proposal, but was one to provide an opportunity for all interested persons to talk.

Kelly recalled a Chamber of Commerce meeting at which Howard A. Lewis, an executive of the Nash-Kelvinator Co., predicted that the future growth of Kingston would make it a second Detroit. This growth, he said, "is going to come whether we want it or not."

ON THIS PROPOSAL, Kelly said, he felt the Common Council would meet the challenge and do what it considered best for the city.

Alderman Charles Cole, of the 13th ward, who said he was not speaking as an alderman, said he felt the city should be interested in economic progress and development.

City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan outlined the character of the rock formation in the region, and he indicated that it was generally of a type that would not produce trouble or inconveniences by operation of such a modern type plant.

At one point at the hearing, George E. Yerry, Jr., suggested that those present who were in favor of bringing the plant here stand up, and nearly all in the room stood up.

Will Consider Claim

Bonn, Germany, Dec. 15 (AP)—Representatives of the western Big Three met here today to consider a renewed Russian claim that the East Germans are in "sovereign" charge of Communist East Berlin. Ministers from the U. S., British and French embassies discussed a note received last night from Soviet Ambassador Georgi M. Pushkin. The Russian envoy to East Germany completely supported a stand taken by Soviet sector commandant P. A. Dibrova that East Berlin is no longer "occupied" by the Russians. Dibrova held it is now the "sovereign" capital of the "sovereign" East German state.

Why We Say--

TEN MONKS: In modern colleges, the dean is the head of the faculty, and ranks just below the institution's president. In Latin, this was the name given to the person set over ten monks. Since the first institutions of higher learning were sponsored by the church, the taking over of the word "dean" was a natural process.

An old timer in a small Alabama town was standing on a street corner watching ominous black clouds gathering in the west, when a stranger standing next to him remarked:

Texan—I don't like to say it, but those clouds look exactly like some we had back in Texas one time just before a tornado struck.

Old Timer—Was it a bad one?

Texan—Bad! How else you figure I come to be in Alabama?

Irishman—Say, isn't London a wonderful place? By gofry, now just look at that thing goin' down there; now, look at it, isn't that wonderful? But say, old man, I wouldn't want to be the cove at the bottom filling that thing up, would ye?

Dinner was a little late. A guest asked the hostess to play something. Seating herself at the piano, the good woman executed a Chopin nocturne with precision. He gave a look of startled surprise and pleasure. "Why, yes, thanks!" he answered. "I had a couple on my way here, but I think I could stand another."

During the depression an enterprising advertising man sold a department store manager on the idea that it would be good publicity to give each Old Age Pensioner in the city a free blanket.

So, the next morning a big ad appeared in the paper explaining that each old age pensioner could secure a new blanket absolutely free by calling at the store. At the bottom of the ad however in small print was the following notation:

"If accompanied by parents."

First surgeon to second surgeon—What did you operate for this morning?

Second surgeon—Five hundred dollars.

Second surgeon—That's all he had. Five hundred dollars.

Annette, who had been a student in a Nicolet, Que., school, entered the hospital Notre Dame de l'Esperance in Villa St. Laurent Dec. 3 for an examination. Marie was admitted Nov. 26 for treatment after leaving a Quebec city convent where she had been training as a postulant. Yvonne and Cecile already were training as nurses at the hospital. STEELED TO RETIREMENT—Mary A. Davis, 65, pours tea for her sister, Sarah L. Davis, 69, as the two Johnstown, Pa., sisters retire from the rugged life of steel workers. The two spent their entire working careers in a man's world of mills and boast service records totaling more than 71 years. They have been placed on pension by Bethlehem Steel Company. Neither ever lost a day's work due to sickness. Their duties have varied from crane operating to cutting wire. Both were members of the United Steel Workers Union.

Heart Fund Will End Ties With Community Drive

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—The American Heart Assn. says it will withdraw from community-wide United Fund campaigns, citing percentages it said were in favor of independent fund drives.

Bruce Barton, chairman of the board of the association, said yesterday withdrawal dates from community fund efforts would be goverened by decisions of the organization's board of directors.

THE DECISION makes permanent a policy adopted experimentally two years ago, banning any new participation by a heart association in a united fund campaign.

Barton said a four-year study disclosed gains averaging 221 per cent by means of association individual drives. Those in united funds, he said, showed gains of only 6.5 per cent.

However, Barton said, heart associations will be allowed to take part in joint appeals within particular businesses, government departments and educational institutions.

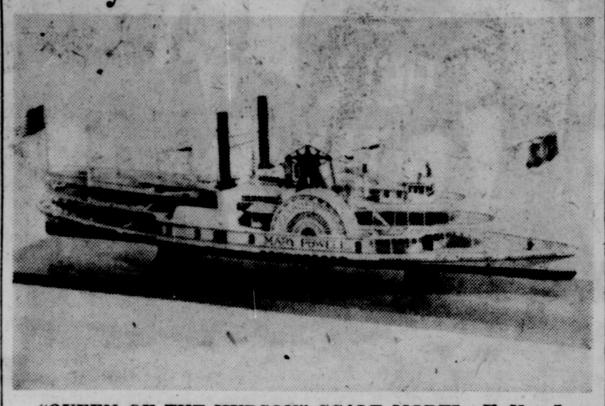
Newburgh Museum Will Add 'Mary Powell' to Exhibit



"QUEEN OF THE HUDSON" SCALE MODEL—F. Van Loon Ryder's model of the famous Mary Powell will be presented to the Hudson River Historical Museum, Newburgh, on Saturday. (John Gould photo).

A nostalgic era of Hudson river maritime travel will be relived in Newburgh on Saturday when an authentic scale model of the beloved Mary Powell, famed side-wheeling "Queen of the Hudson" steamboat will be presented to Crawford House, home of the Hudson River Historical Museum, at 3 p. m. The museum is located at the corner of Clinton and Montgomery streets.

Made by the master craftsman of Hudson river steamboats, F. Van Loon Ryder, the model has been presented to the museum in honor of Mary Ludlow Powell after whom the renowned steamboat was named. It has been permanently cased and forms the center of the Hudson river exhibit.

THE PRESENTATION ceremony will include a talk on the Mary Powell by William duBarry Thomas of Island Dock, Inc. Mr. Thomas is the grandson of the late Harry Marvel of the famous Marvel Shipyard of Newburgh. He is a recognized authority on historic Hudson river steamboats.

Herbert Sears of Marlborough will also speak, drawing on his memories of sixty years acquaintance with Hudson river steamboats and their captains.

The latest acquisition of the museum, which is affiliated with the Historical Society of Newburgh Bay and Highlands, is undoubtedly Mr. Ryder's finest creation to date and represents more than five months of work and countless hours of research.

MUCH OF THE reference material for the model, which is 37 inches long, was furnished by Donald C. Ringwald of Kingston. The pilot house, although only approximately two inches in length, has more than 100 hand-carved panels and the walking beam is composed of 56 pieces of copper and brass. Mr. Ringwald is associated with museum.

NAMED IN HER HONOR—Mary Ludlow Powell (1785-1867) wife of Thomas Powell. The renowned steamboat was named in her honor. Mrs. Powell is buried in St. George's Cemetery, Newburgh.

He is considered "probably the foremost authority on the best-loved Hudson river steamboats" by the Steamship Historical Society of America. His article in the American Neptune, a quarterly journal of maritime history, is believed to be the best documented biography on the Mary Powell.

The model itself is constructed in part from the original Mary Powell, which was built in 1861 and for over a half century traveled the same route on the Hudson.

Sidney Squire, executive deputy to Carmine DeSapio, secretary of state, yesterday urged the public to come forward with any facts that might help. He has been named by DeSapio to head the inquiry.

Firm Must Pay Woman

Canandaigua, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—Edward G. Wiley and a New York brokerage firm have been ordered to reimburse $12,607.29 to a Geneva woman who had sued them on a stock fraud charge. A State Supreme Court jury yesterday decided in favor of Mrs. Sarah R. Flanigan. She had charged that Wiley, as an agent of Cohu and Co., had defrauded her of more than $18,000 through misstatements about the value of some stock.

Would Change Over Park

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Showman Billy Rose wants to rehabilitate Central Park and take it out of its classification as a "No Man's Land" after dark. Bartenders Asked To Help Reduce Drunken Driving

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—Police officers urged a meeting of 400 tavern owners and bartenders yesterday to help fight the problem of drunken driving, which has increased here over the last five years.

The unusual meeting was called by the Onondaga County Alcoholic Beverage Control Board after figures were published showing that 177 arrests had been made on drunken driving charges in the first 11 months of this year. This compared with 50 such arrests in 1950.

THE BARKEEPS and bartenders were urged to call police when they believe a patron is too drunk to drive or walk home safely.

Sheriff Albert E. Stone said he would seek a change in the control board's regulations that he said amount to "blacklisting" of taverns that report drunks to police.

Stone said drunks or fights reported to police have to be reported in turn to the control board. Too many such "black marks" result in loss of a license, he explained.

Stone said some tavern keepers hestitated to make such reports because of the regulation.

Bought Island

Bartenders Asked To Help Reduce Drunken Driving

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—Police officers urged a meeting of 400 tavern owners and bartenders yesterday to help fight the problem of drunken driving, which has increased here over the last five years.

The unusual meeting was called by the Onondaga County Alcoholic Beverage Control Board after figures were published showing that 177 arrests had been made on drunken driving charges in the first 11 months of this year. This compared with 50 such arrests in 1950.

THE BARKEEPS and bartenders were urged to call police when they believe a patron is too drunk to drive or walk home safely.

Sheriff Albert E. Stone said he would seek a change in the control board's regulations that he said amount to "blacklisting" of taverns that report drunks to police.

Stone said drunks or fights reported to police have to be reported in turn to the control board. Too many such "black marks" result in loss of a license, he explained.

Stone said some tavern keepers hestitated to make such reports because of the regulation.

Coach House Holds Christmas Party

A decorated Coach House provided a gala setting for the Christmas get-together of the Coach House Players Tuesday, Dec. 13 thanks to the efforts of Frank and Madeline Reis and George Betts. After a short business meeting a program of Christmas music was offered by the members. Marion Harper was accompanied by C. Franklin Pierce, organist of the Rondout Presbyterian Church in her rendition of "O Holy Night." Paul Whitten sang the spiritual "Sweet Lil' Jesus Boy" with piano accompaniment by Pat Shaw. A quartet with Madeline Reis, Maureen Rice, Dorothy Lacey and Pat Shaw offered two songs of Christmas, one an original by Mrs. Lacey.

After Santa arrived and distributed gifts complete with a little jingle for everyone, memento gifts to the past presidents, W. Irving Rose and George Betts, were presented by Teresa Little, president. Several carols were sung and dancing was enjoyed with music provided by a sound system installed by Norman Shapiro. Refreshments were served by Gertrude Felsen and Janet Green.

As one of their holiday projects the Coach House Players will decorate the Ulster County Chronic Infirmary and anyone having ideas or any type of decoration they would like to contribute for this use are urged to contact Gertrude Felsen, Janet Green or Olive Lahl before the weekend and arrangements for pick up will be made. Members will meet at the home of Janet Green on Miller's Lane Extension Tuesday evening, Dec. 20, to complete the decorations which the Players hope will bring a festive holiday atmosphere to the many patients and staff of the Infirmary.

A Belated Shower ..

A letter tells me: "A very dear friend of mine was married this past summer. Her fiance who works in another state came home for a two-week vacation the end of July and they decided to be married at that time. Right after they were married she returned with him to the state in which he works. They expect to come for a visit during the holidays. Since everything was done in a rush no one had a chance to give her a shower. I was wondering if it would be proper to give her one when she comes here for a visit, or is it too late for such a party?"

Coach House Holds Christmas Party

A decorated Coach House provided a gala setting for the Christmas get-together of the Coach House Players Tuesday, Dec. 13 thanks to the efforts of Frank and Madeline Reis and George Betts. After a short business meeting a program of Christmas music was offered by the members. Marion Harper was accompanied by C. Franklin Pierce, organist of the Rondout Presbyterian Church in her rendition of "O Holy Night." Paul Whitten sang the spiritual "Sweet Lil' Jesus Boy" with piano accompaniment by Pat Shaw. A quartet with Madeline Reis, Maureen Rice, Dorothy Lacey and Pat Shaw offered two songs of Christmas, one an original by Mrs. Lacey.

After Santa arrived and distributed gifts complete with a little jingle for everyone, memento gifts to the past presidents, W. Irving Rose and George Betts, were presented by Teresa Little, president. Several carols were sung and dancing was enjoyed with music provided by a sound system installed by Norman Shapiro. Refreshments were served by Gertrude Felsen and Janet Green.

As one of their holiday projects the Coach House Players will decorate the Ulster County Chronic Infirmary and anyone having ideas or any type of decoration they would like to contribute for this use are urged to contact Gertrude Felsen, Janet Green or Olive Lahl before the weekend and arrangements for pick up will be made. Members will meet at the home of Janet Green on Miller's Lane Extension Tuesday evening, Dec. 20, to complete the decorations which the Players hope will bring a festive holiday atmosphere to the many patients and staff of the Infirmary.

A Belated Shower . .

A letter tells me: "A very dear friend of mine was married this past summer. Her fiance who works in another state came home for a two-week vacation the end of July and they decided to be married at that time. Right after they were married she returned with him to the state in which he works. They expect to come for a visit during the holidays. Since everything was done in a rush no one had a chance to give her a shower. I was wondering if it would be proper to give her one when she comes here for a visit, or is it too late for such a party?"

If hardly any of her friends were able to give her wedding presents, then a belated shower would be nice. Otherwise, I don't think those who have already given a present should be asked to contribute anything more.

Concerning Christmas Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know how Christmas cards should be signed when mother, father and several children are to be included. Also, may the children's names be included on cards sent to acquaintances, or are they included only on cards sent to intimate friends?

Answer: (1) They could be signed "The John Smiths—all Five." Or, from "The Smiths—John, Mary, Johnny, Marie and Tim." There is no rule about anything so informal as this. (2) To all of those who know them.

Family Relationship

Dear Mrs. Post: I doubt whether this question is within the province of etiquette, but I am writing to you anyway on the chance that you may be able to set me straight on a point of relationship. I would like to know what relationship my first cousin's children are to me. Also, how are my children related to the children of my first cousin?

Answer: Your cousin's children are your first cousins once removed, and they are your children's second cousins.

Several pupils of Lina M. Schmidtkonz gave a music recital in the beautifully decorated Crystal Room at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Sunday, Dec. 11.

Students from the primary, elementary and advanced grades were featured.

Miss Schmidtkonzs' pupils showed real understanding of the numbers played and special attention was given to the brilliancy displayed by the advanced pupils.

In welcoming the large number of guests present, Miss Schmidtkonz spoke informally of the interest and good work of all her students. At the end of the program, the winners of awards were announced.

Participating in the program were David Roberts, Marjorie Whitaker, Charlie O'Reilly, Peggy Amatrano, Carol Cooke, Susan O'Reilly, Alma Strickland, Sandra Buehring, Nancy DeWitt, Jimmy Valeo, Francine Turck, Jerry Finger and Bob Fischer.

At the party, the auxiliary will distribute over 200 toys to the children. These toys were donated by the residents of Kingston and the ladies dressed and repaired them.

IBM to Hold Yule Party for Children Here on Saturday

The first annual Christmas party for children of employes of Kingston plant of International Business Machines Corporation will be held Saturday at the Kate Walton Field House, south of Kingston High School.

Approximately 1,400 youngsters are expected to be guests of IBM Kingston at the occasion, which, although the first held here, is traditional in communities where IBM installations are located.

Only children, eight years old or younger, who are sons and daughters of IBM Kingston employes are invited.

Santa Claus, aided by Mrs. Santa, will be on hand to distribute gifts and stockings full of candy.

Serving as general chairman of the party is Chester A. Hendricksen. His committee members include Elinor Hiersekorn, Emily Flowers, Al Gaffney, Gus Steuding, Catherine Bunce, George Jerkowski, William Walsh, Robert Weigel, Evelyn Gross Moore and Mrs. Winifred Roosa.

Actually, there will be two parties. The first will take place from 10 a. m. to 12 noon, and the second from 1 to 3 p. m., to give every eligible youngster an opportunity to attend.

Although children will have their choice of which session to attend, the planners are hoping that the groups will be split equally, or as near to it as possible.

IBM to Hold Yule Party for Children Here on Saturday

The first annual Christmas party for children of employes of Kingston plant of International Business Machines Corporation will be held Saturday at the Kate Walton Field House, south of Kingston High School.

Approximately 1,400 youngsters are expected to be guests of IBM Kingston at the occasion, which, although the first held here, is traditional in communities where IBM installations are located.

Only children, eight years old or younger, who are sons and daughters of IBM Kingston employes are invited.

Santa Claus, aided by Mrs. Santa, will be on hand to distribute gifts and stockings full of candy.

Serving as general chairman of the party is Chester A. Hendricksen. His committee members include Elinor Hiersekorn, Emily Flowers, Al Gaffney, Gus Steuding, Catherine Bunce, George Jerkowski, William Walsh, Robert Weigel, Evelyn Gross Moore and Mrs. Winifred Roosa.

Actually, there will be two parties. The first will take place from 10 a. m. to 12 noon, and the second from 1 to 3 p. m., to give every eligible youngster an opportunity to attend.

250 Women Attend Hadassah Reception

More than 250 women attended Hadassah's Annual Youth Aliyah reception Monday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mrs. Oscar London, president of Hadassah, greeted those in attendance.

Mrs. Melvin Navy, chairman of Youth Aliyah, who presided over the evening's program, presented Mrs. Harry Feldman, Youth Aliyah treasurer, with the Hadassah Service Award in recognition of her outstanding work during the campaign.

Highlighting the evening's entertainment, was a one-act play, "Overtones" by Alice Gerstenberg, presented by the Coach House Players. Performed by Kay Levy, Harriet Engelen, Pattie Beere and Eleanor Cohen. Overtones described the honyed manner in which two women speak to each other, contrasted with their true feelings and underlying motives characterized by their two alter egos. Fran Matteson of the Drama Workshop of the Coach House Players, directed the play.

Also included in the program was a talk by Mrs. Carl Silber, civic leader of Poughkeepsie, on the precarious situation now facing Israel, pointing out that the Arab nations have, so far, refused Israel's plea for negotiations.

A sweet table was prepared by co-hostesses Mrs. Ben. Suskind and Mrs. Ida Werbalowsky, assisted by the Mmes. Harry Katzoff, Nathaniel Gross and Alfred Ronder. The following members poured: the Mmes. Marvin Baron, Herbert Greenwald, Herbert Bloom, Paul Glickman, William Fox, Ruby Markson and David Sherry.

First U. S. postage stamps were placed on sale in New York City on July 1, 1847.

George Washington Students Decorate Tree With Presents

"There's the present I bought for our tree," Karen Locke, fourth grade pupil at the George Washington Elementary School tells a group of her classmates excitedly as they stop to admire the Christmas tree which the group made as a class project recently. The tree has been placed in the main corridor of the building where all George Washington students may see it and be reminded of the true spirit of the Christmas season, thoughfulness of others. The project was directed by Mrs. Camille Mills, fourth grade teacher, who in commenting about the project said, "We felt that there were many little boys and girls who might not be remembered at Christmas time, so we wanted to do something for them."

For this purpose, a tree was made of forest green crepe paper and is being adorned by gifts individually wrapped and brought in by the pupils of the class. The gifts are all suitable for children of ages 8-10 and when the tree has been completed, it will be presented to the Children's Home.

The "Christmas tree for other boys and girls" is only one of many interesting projects now underway in the George Washington School, according to Ambrose J. Boyd, principal. Little tots revel in Santa's workshops, realistically dripping with icicles in the school's three kindergartens, a sleigh and reindeer stand near the toy shop in Mrs. Charlotte McLean's room and the students are putting the finishing touches to gifts for mother and dad.

Faculty members of George Washington are likewise sharing in the same Christmas spirit. In lieu of the customary exchange of season's greetings among its individual members, the group is contributing to a George Washington School Children's Fund. Following the holidays, in consideration of the recent state department and local safety ruling for student participation in the school's physical education program, this fund will be used to provide sneakers for needy children.

OUTSTANDING—Linda Clark of Albany, N.Y., has been named "Outstanding Catholic Youth of the Year." The 21-year-old senior at the College of St. Rose in Albany is the first recipient of the award established by the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

SERIOUS BUSINESS—"How's chances, Sa nta? Justa red fire truck. That's all I want for Christmas. I've been a good boy and . . ."

Those blissfully joyous cherub figurines that you see in jewelers' windows and stores have been introduced this year to serve as a symbol that signifies jewelry and the joy of giving. Created by the Jewelry Industry Council, which represents the jewelry industry as a whole, the cherubs are lending their charming presence to jewelry stores from coast to coast. Thus the cherub, long regarded as signifying gladsomeness and warmth of heart, serves now to identify the jewelry store as a place that deals, not only in merchandise, but also—and uniquely so—in sentiment and romance.

Use a good silver cream polish to give toaster, waffle iron, or other electrical appliances, a brighter look.

Artificial Lakes

All of the nearly 100 lakes in western North Carolina are artificial. Largest is Fontana, in the Great Smokies, which covers an area of 10,800 acres.

WON'T QUIT—Hedy Lamarr isn't ready to quit work, even though she's married to Texas millionaire Howard Lee. The movie star is being considered for a role in "The Scoundrel."

Desertion Trial Opens

Ft. Dix, N. J., Dec. 15 (AP)—A 35-year-old concrete finisher is pictured by the army as a soldier who deserted in wartime, and by his friends and family as a man of excellent reputation who cared for a sick mother. The court martial of Pvt. Edward Sikorski, of Menands, N. Y., a suburb of Troy, N. Y., opened yesterday. Sikorski is charged with deserting the army from Camp Pickett, Va., on May 23, 1943, and remaining absent until he was picked up at Menands on Oct. 21 of this year. The army produced records it said backed up its desertion claims.

Negroes Admitted

Dallas, Dec. 15 (AP)—For the first time in its 80-year history, the Dallas County Medical Society has admitted Negroes into their organization, Executive Secretary Millard Heath said yesterday. Drs. Harold H. Culmer, William K. Flowers Jr. and Joseph R. Williams were unanimously elected into the group Tuesday night. The three Negroes are now eligible for membership on the medical staff of Dallas' four major hospitals. All four hospitals have regulations stipulating membership in the county and state medical groups before admission to their staffs. The State Medical Society this spring altered its constitution to permit Negro members and the Dallas unit soon afterwards did the same.

Dies of Exposure

Catskill, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—A 75-year-old man broke through the ice while skating on a frozen creek yesterday and died shortly after his rescue. Greene County Memorial Hospital said Arthur J. Powell of Catskill apparently died of exposure. Coroner Mahlon Atkinson withheld a verdict. A passerby saw Powell struggling in the water of Cauterskill creek and telephoned state police. He had been skating alone.

Ann Blyth Has Daughter

Hollywood, Dec. 15 (AP)—It's a girl for actress Ann Blyth. The baby weighed in yesterday at 7 pounds 3 ounces and was named Maureen Ann McNulty. The star and husband, Dr. James McNulty, have a son, Timothy Patrick, 1½.

Police Have Bicycles

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren today issued notice that more than a dozen unclaimed bicycles, picked up in various parts of the city, are in storage at police headquarters. Owners of missing bicycles, he said, should visit police headquarters, city hall, to determine if their bicycles are among those which have been collecting there for some time. They may be claimed by proper identification.

SERIOUS BUSINESS—"How's chances, Sa nta? Justa red fire truck. That's all I want for Christmas. I've been a good boy and . . ."

Those blissfully joyous cherub figurines that you see in jewelers' windows and stores have been introduced this year to serve as a symbol that signifies jewelry and the joy of giving. Created by the Jewelry Industry Council, which represents the jewelry industry as a whole, the cherubs are lending their charming presence to jewelry stores from coast to coast. Thus the cherub, long regarded as signifying gladsomeness and warmth of heart, serves now to identify the jewelry store as a place that deals, not only in merchandise, but also—and uniquely so—in sentiment and romance.

Use a good silver cream polish to give toaster, waffle iron, or other electrical appliances, a brighter look.

New Link . . .

jured. The icy section was sanded after the accident.

RIBBON CUTTING ceremonies and speech making highlight completion of the six-lane half-billion-dollar toll road from Buffalo to Yonkers. A three-mile section, exempt from tolls by state law, is expected to be completed in a year to link New York city and Yonkers and complete the 427-mile thruway.

The Suffern-Yonkers section includes the $60 million bridge across the Hudson from Nyack and Tarrytown.

IN OPENING the 28-mile stretch, Harriman completes the chores begun by his Republican predecessor Thomas E. Dewey.

Democrats generally opposed construction of the thruway, calling it "Dewey's upstate boulevard."

About a year ago, after his first news conference as governor-elect at his Arden farms estate, Harriman and newsmen walked toward the highway to take a look, as Harriman put it, at "Dewey's Thruway."

Last night, in a speech at Tarrytown, State Sen. Walter Mahoney (R.-Buffalo) called the thruway a monument to the foresight, genius and action of a great Republican governor — Thomas E. Dewey—and a Republican Legislature.

THE OPENING ceremonies began with Harriman cutting the ribbon on the new bridge to the whine of 50 Air Force jets streaming overhead and a Navy destroyer anchored in the Hudson river booming a 17-gun salute.

The bridge is a vital connecting link between the New England Thruway, the New York Thruway and the New Jersey Turnpike. It will also provide the first fixed connection between Rockland and Westchester counties. A ferryboat formerly operated between the two sections.

Boy, 8, Is Hurt In Traffic Mishap

David J. Buryne, 8, of 33 Linderman avenue, was taken to the Benedictine Hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in a traffic mishap at Washington and Linderman avenue shortly before noon today. Officers Julius Glassman and Francis Buchanan reported at 11:55 a. m., that the boy came in contact with a truck operated by Ronald Cassell, 24, of 68 Broadway, which was headed south on Washington avenue and turning left into Linderman. The boy was taken to the hospital in a Schultz ambulance. Extent of his injuries was unknown.

The wardrobe done for Sharon Kay Ritchie, Miss America 1956, is by American designers in Everglaze cotton. We show Miss Ritchie wearing three costumes from this wardrobe, beginning (left) with Ceil Chapman's ball gown in polished cotton encrusted with gold embroidery. Theater ensemble (center) by Lawrence Gaines is in print-and-plain polished cotton in black-and-white. Short ball dress (right) by Emma Domb is in cotton moire, has new look of more cover-up for neck and shoulders. Fabric in all three costumes is crease-resistant. — By Gaile Dugas, NEA Women's Editor.

A gift earmarked for the glittery holiday season is this shiny gilded case, fitted with a purse flacon of perfume and a fragrance-matched cream powder compact. It's small enough to be carried in a handbag but it can also be used alone for evening occasions. —By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor.

East Kingston

of the ceilings fell from the effect of the water and the walls were heavily damaged, he reported. Adding to the difficulty was the fact that a stairway leading to the attic had been weakened by flames to such an extent that it couldn't be used.

No other homes in the vicinity were threatened by the blaze. The nearest house was about 50 feet away.

The fire department had a tanker and pumper at the scene, using about 100 feet of 1½-inch hose and a booster line.

Chief Costello said it was a good thing there had been no high wind. He praised the work of East Kingston firemen in fighting the blaze which he described as "pretty stubborn" with very heavy smoke.

Mr. Ricks told the chief he lost three mattresses, some cover and most of his dishes in the fire. He also lost about $15 in cash.

Weaver Appointed

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman yesterday appointed Robert C. Weaver, a Negro, as state rent administrator. Weaver, 48, of New York city, is believed to be the first member of his race appointed to a New York state post of cabinet rank. The rent administrator supervises rent control in the state. He is paid $17,000 a year and a $3,000 expense allowance. Weaver had been deputy star commissioner of housing.

Height of horses is measured in hands (four inches) and their weight in stones (14 pounds).

Misnomer

Few centipedes have as many as 100 legs. The common house type has only 15 pairs; the garden variety, 21 pairs; and some species have as many as 200 legs.

Slaters Bring Suit to Collect For Injuries

Mrs. Evelyn Slater and her husband, Kenneth Slater, bring an action in Supreme Court against Gladys Bose to recover damages for injuries which Mrs. Slater suffered on May 16, 1953, in Newburgh while she was in the act of crossing Water street. Plaintiff alleges she was struck by the Bose car, operated by a son of defendant, as she stepped out in front of a bus to cross the street. She alleges she saw no vehicle coming and that the defendant's car was being driven at an excessive rate of speed and out of control of the operator.

Defendant denies the charge and alleges she stepped from the right into the left fender of his car. He alleges he saw her and a companion standing on the street when she suddenly stepped into his car. Excessive speed is denied and he claims he was able to stop his car in three to five feet after she was struck. John A. Bonomi appears for plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook Jr., for defendant.

Mrs. Slater was a patient at St. Luke's Hospital for a time and was transferred to the Ellenville hospital to be near home.

The Slater-Bose case was opened when delay in the Trinkle-Smith case, partially tried, was held up pending arrival of a witness.

Spending . . .

ture, by localities for disposal of garbage.

Authorized the state to borrow 750 million dollars for highway construction.

Allowed the construction of a dam across the south branch of the Moose River at Panther Mountain in the Adirondacks.

Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits is chairman of the board. Other members are Senators Walter J. Mahoney and Francis J. Mahoney, Republican and Democratic leaders respectively, and Assemblymen Joseph F. Carlino and Eugene F. Bannigan, Republican and Democratic leaders in their house.

The board also certified the election of 20 State Supreme Court justices.

The wardrobe done for Sharon Kay Ritchie, Miss America 1956, is by American designers in Everglaze cotton. We show Miss Ritchie wearing three costumes from this wardrobe, beginning (left) with Ceil Chapman's ball gown in polished cotton encrusted with gold embroidery. Theater ensemble (center) by Lawrence Gaines is in print-and-plain polished cotton in black-and-white. Short ball dress (right) by Emma Domb is in cotton moire, has new look of more cover-up for neck and shoulders. Fabric in all three costumes is crease-resistant. — By Gaile Dugas, NEA Women's Editor.

A gift earmarked for the glittery holiday season is this shiny gilded case, fitted with a purse flacon of perfume and a fragrance-matched cream powder compact. It's small enough to be carried in a handbag but it can also be used alone for evening occasions. —By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor.

of the ceilings fell from the effect of the water and the walls were heavily damaged, he reported. Adding to the difficulty was the fact that a stairway leading to the attic had been weakened by flames to such an extent that it couldn't be used.

No other homes in the vicinity were threatened by the blaze. The nearest house was about 50 feet away.

The fire department had a tanker and pumper at the scene, using about 100 feet of 1½-inch hose and a booster line.

Chief Costello said it was a good thing there had been no high wind. He praised the work of East Kingston firemen in fighting the blaze which he described as "pretty stubborn" with very heavy smoke.

Mr. Ricks told the chief he lost three mattresses, some cover and most of his dishes in the fire. He also lost about $15 in cash.

Weaver Appointed

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman yesterday appointed Robert C. Weaver, a Negro, as state rent administrator. Weaver, 48, of New York city, is believed to be the first member of his race appointed to a New York state post of cabinet rank. The rent administrator supervises rent control in the state. He is paid $17,000 a year and a $3,000 expense allowance. Weaver had been deputy star commissioner of housing.

Slaters Bring Suit to Collect For Injuries

Mrs. Evelyn Slater and her husband, Kenneth Slater, bring an action in Supreme Court against Gladys Bose to recover damages for injuries which Mrs. Slater suffered on May 16, 1953, in Newburgh while she was in the act of crossing Water street. Plaintiff alleges she was struck by the Bose car, operated by a son of defendant, as she stepped out in front of a bus to cross the street. She alleges she saw no vehicle coming and that the defendant's car was being driven at an excessive rate of speed and out of control of the operator.

Defendant denies the charge and alleges she stepped from the right into the left fender of his car. He alleges he saw her and a companion standing on the street when she suddenly stepped into his car. Excessive speed is denied and he claims he was able to stop his car in three to five feet after she was struck. John A. Bonomi appears for plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook Jr., for defendant.

Mrs. Slater was a patient at St. Luke's Hospital for a time and was transferred to the Ellenville hospital to be near home.

The Slater-Bose case was opened when delay in the Trinkle-Smith case, partially tried, was held up pending arrival of a witness.

Maroons Seek Fourth Win in Friday Game at Catskill High

Light Schedule For Area Fives; PHS-NFA Friday

Kingston Recesses Until After Holiday

Faced with the happy prospect of ending the pre-holiday basketball campaign unbeaten, Kingston High School invades the Catskill High gym tomorrow night.

The Maroons will be seeking their fourth victory. To date the local combination has defeated Hudson, Liberty and Monticello in order.

The big game in the mid-Hudson valley, however, is the Poughkeepsie High-Newburgh Free Academy clash at the Hill City. The result of this match could make the DUSO League picture much clearer.

The only other DUSO game tomorrow is Monticello at Ellenville. Liberty visits Fallsburgh tonight.

One game was scheduled this afternoon a UCAL contest at Saugerties. Catskill was the visiting team.

TOMORROW'S UCAL slate lists Highland at Onteora and Marlboro at New Paltz.

The New Paltz Teachers seek their third victory tomorrow playing host to Drew.

Kingston faces a team which lost to Ellenville and then beat Cardinal Farley Military Academy. Catskill is not rated as a strong team, but it could be tough on its home court. Roscoe Lacy has been the team's top scorer.

THE LOCALS have shown slow but steady improvement to date. Their shooting was very impressive against Monticello. Only in the fourth period, when they had a safe lead, did the Maroons shoot hastily. And this flurry was only brief, followed by a "freeze." The passwork was very sharp; the rebounding and defensive play was good.

However, the tough part of the schedule will begin after the holiday recess. Jack Gilligan and his players will be greeted with Port Jervis, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Middletown in that order.

Poughkeepsie and Newburgh have both steamrollered their opponents. The chances are that the game between them will be much closer. The Pioneers, however, must be named the favorite because of a more experienced lineup.

AMONG THE Ulster county village teams, Saugerties has been the undisputed kingpin to date. The Sawyers have bowled over five opponents in handy fashion. But Smith's quintet is a clear-cut choice to repeat as UCAL champion. Kerhonkson is the only team that can be expected to give the SHS five much of a battle.

Despite the youth of the season, only two Ulster teams—Kingston and Saugerties—are still unbeaten.

Brooklyn Shooters Power North Carolina's Quintet

(By The Associated Press)

This, very definitely, must be Brooklyn's year.

The Flatbush victory influence is extending south to North Carolina where the tall, talented Tar Heels basketball team is showing evidence of becoming one of the collegiate powers.

Frank McGuire, the N. C. coach, is a former St. John's of Brooklyn mentor. Lennie Rosenbluth, the team's high scorer, played high school ball in Brooklyn and sophomore sensation Joe Quigg also comes from Flatbush. So does Pete Brennan, a good-looking forward.

And the Dodgers had nothing on the Tarheels. For McGuire's lads have won their first four games this season without hardly working up a sweat.

LAST NIGHT, Alabama, the nation's sixth-ranked team, was mowed down by North Carolina's high-power attack in one of the big upsets of the budding campaign.

The Tarheels won 99-77, handing 'Bama its fist defeat in five starts. Rosenbluth, 6-5, dropped in 29 points, 17 in the first half.

In other games, second-ranked North Carolina State routed South Carolina 90-66. Dayton swamped Idaho 93-56, La Salle defeated Lafayette 95-81 and Richmond knocked off VMI 96-56 in a Southern Conference game, Washington of St. Louis surprised Canisius 68-63 and St. Joseph's (Pa.) knocked Villanova from the unbeaten ranks 83-70. Purdue edged Loyola of Chicago 69-68 on Don Thurnburg's jump shot in the last 10 seconds and Houston tripped Texas A & M 78-44.

Carpouzis Sinks 47 As Backs Beat Diner

Without a doubt George Carpouzis heads the "Dear Santa" list of every club in the Y Basketball League. For if every other club had him he wouldn't make such a shambles of their defense as he did again Wednesday night when he rimmed 47 points to lead Back Cedaraps to an 96-81 win over Empire Diner in the A Division.

The B bracket produced a 42-39 victory for Lou's Cleaners over Corner Rest while the Yellow Jackets bounced back to defeat Accord, 63-60.

HITTING 17 from the field and stroking 13 from the free throw line, Carpouzis scored two less points than his teammates combined. Marty Kaye grabbed the runner-up slot with 19.

Meanwhile, Bill DuBois proved himself no shrinking violet when he racked up 35 in Empire losing effort.

Only two players hit double figures in the Lou's Corner Rest match. Mike Provenzanio led the Cleaners with 13 and Dick LeFever tossed in the same number for the Rest.

Bucky Miller hooped 23 to pace the Yellow Jackets and George Sleely contributed 18 to the Accord cause. Milt Ebert and Tom Geiselhart were tied for the second slot with 16 apiece.

Labua Defeated But Gets Bout Against Fullmer

Syracuse, Dec. 15 (AP)—Gil Turner outpointed Jackie Labua in 10-rounds last night. But it looks as if Labua gained the most from the scrap.

For one thing, all the information that could be pieced together from assorted handlers indicated that Labua would meet Gene Fullmer in New York's Madison Square Garden on Jan. 6.

Turner had been slated for that bout with Fullmer. But Labua's persistent flicking left jab opened a cut over Turner's right eye and it appeared the cut might keep Turner out of action for at least a month.

BUT KATZ suggested that Turner would be looking for a chance at welterweight champion Carmen Basilio if Carmen retains the title when he fights Johnny Saxton.

Billy Brown, matchmaker for the International Boxing Club, said present plans were to stage the Basilio-Saxton fight in Chicago on Feb. 1, provided Basilio's injured left hand is ready.

Labua, a newcomer to the national middleweight scene, had only two fights this year before he tangled with Turner. His lack of experience was obvious, but he showed a durability and fearless counter-punching attack.

HE STOOD UP well under Turner's familiar windmill slashing with both hands. But the youngster from East Meadow, N. Y., was unable to cope with Turner's superior ring experience.

However, it was not the Gil Turner of old. He carried the fight to Labua but often found himself tricked out of a chance to land his hard right as Labua spun away while countering with his right. Turner weighed 154½, Labua 159.

Stotz and LL Resume Talks

Lewisburg, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP)—Attorneys for Little League Baseball Inc., and Carl E. Stotz, former commissioner, report that they will resume negotiations within a few days at Williamsport for settlement of their dispute.

S. Dale Furst, representing Little League, and Daniel F. Knittle, representing Stotz, issued a statement yesterday after conferring with Judge Frederick V. Follmer of U. S. District Court. They said the statement was made necessary by reports that the negotiations had broken down.

They said the reports might have been prompted by two documents Knittle filed in Federal Court Tuesday. One was a motion for a jury trial and the other was an amendment of the answer to the Little League's suit.

Both attorneys said the filing of the documents was "a formality" in developing the record of the case.

Third Straight Loss for Rangers

(By The Associated Press)

It may have been just the law of averages catching up with the New York Rangers, but Coach Phil Watson threatened drastic action after seeing his blue-shirted National Hockey League crew drop a 4-1 decision to the Chicago Black Hawks last night.

Watson, steaming over the Rangers' third straight defeat and the first win for Chicago after beating the Hawks five straight, promised some changes unless his charges perk up. And the chances for an immediate victory were none too bright since the New Yorkers meet the league leading Canadiens in Montreal tonight.

Labua Defeated But Gets Bout Against Fullmer

Syracuse, Dec. 15 (AP)—Gil Turner outpointed Jackie Labua in 10-rounds last night. But it looks as if Labua gained the most from the scrap.

For one thing, all the information that could be pieced together from assorted handlers indicated that Labua would meet Gene Fullmer in New York's Madison Square Garden on Jan. 6.

Turner had been slated for that bout with Fullmer. But Labua's persistent flicking left jab opened a cut over Turner's right eye and it appeared the cut might keep Turner out of action for at least a month.

BUT KATZ suggested that Turner would be looking for a chance at welterweight champion Carmen Basilio if Carmen retains the title when he fights Johnny Saxton.

Billy Brown, matchmaker for the International Boxing Club, said present plans were to stage the Basilio-Saxton fight in Chicago on Feb. 1, provided Basilio's injured left hand is ready.

Labua, a newcomer to the national middleweight scene, had only two fights this year before he tangled with Turner. His lack of experience was obvious, but he showed a durability and fearless counter-punching attack.

HE STOOD UP well under Turner's familiar windmill slashing with both hands. But the youngster from East Meadow, N. Y., was unable to cope with Turner's superior ring experience.

However, it was not the Gil Turner of old. He carried the fight to Labua but often found himself tricked out of a chance to land his hard right as Labua spun away while countering with his right. Turner weighed 154½, Labua 159.

Stotz and LL Resume Talks

Lewisburg, Pa., Dec. 15 (AP)—Attorneys for Little League Baseball Inc., and Carl E. Stotz, former commissioner, report that they will resume negotiations within a few days at Williamsport for settlement of their dispute.

S. Dale Furst, representing Little League, and Daniel F. Knittle, representing Stotz, issued a statement yesterday after conferring with Judge Frederick V. Follmer of U. S. District Court. They said the statement was made necessary by reports that the negotiations had broken down.

They said the reports might have been prompted by two documents Knittle filed in Federal Court Tuesday. One was a motion for a jury trial and the other was an amendment of the answer to the Little League's suit.

Both attorneys said the filing of the documents was "a formality" in developing the record of the case.

Third Straight Loss for Rangers

(By The Associated Press)

It may have been just the law of averages catching up with the New York Rangers, but Coach Phil Watson threatened drastic action after seeing his blue-shirted National Hockey League crew drop a 4-1 decision to the Chicago Black Hawks last night.

Watson, steaming over the Rangers' third straight defeat and the first win for Chicago after beating the Hawks five straight, promised some changes unless his charges perk up. And the chances for an immediate victory were none too bright since the New Yorkers meet the league leading Canadiens in Montreal tonight.

Siena Routs Army, 77-67, for First Win

Tim Hill Scores 31 for All-Time Siena Record

Frank Koenig Sinks 12 Points for Tribe

Siena College parlayed a blistering first half and a new individual school scoring record into a smashing 77-67 victory over the Army cagers, yesterday at the West Point field house.

Tim Hill, the Siena co-captain, scored 31 points, to set a new all-time Indian mark. The old record of 30 was held by Billy Hogan. It was the first win after two losses for Coach Dan Cunha's squad.

Frank Koenig of Kingston, co-captain with Hill, contributed 12 points, eight in the first half when Siena hit with a phenomenal 63 per cent of its shots from the floor to rout the Cadets, 43-24.

LED BY FISHER and Bimstein, the Cadets came back to outscore the Indians, 43-34 after the intermission but Siena's early lead was too much for the Cadets to overcome.

While Siena was hitting brilliantly from the floor in the first half, the Cadets went through one spell of 8 minutes without connecting for a basket.

Army outscored the Indians, 26-19, from the field but the Cadets' hawking and all-court press tactics led them into numerous fouls. Siena cashed in on 39 of 51 tries, with Koenig getting 10 and Hill nine.

A ROUT appeared in the making when Siena opened the second half with four fast points on a jump shot by Hill and two free throws by Koenig. With Siena leading 62-44 at the 7:00 mark the Cadets made their move and the game wound up in a flurry of fouls.

Obermayer and Connelly scored 16 and 13 respectively for Siena. Fisher was Army's top scorer with 17 points. Marc Bimstein, the Cadets' big gun, finished with 15 markers, after a bad first half.

Siena meets Georgetown Saturday night at the Albany Armory.

Royals Stretch Western Lead; Knicks Beaten

(By The Associated Press)

The scramble in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn., which has been a dog-eat-dog affair almost from the start of the season, is rapidly deveioping into a one-team affair.

The lightly regarded Rochester Royals took a 1½-game lead last night as they defeated the St. Louis Hawks, one-time leader, 117-109 at Pittsburgh.

MINNEAPOLIS' 98-95 triumph over Fort Wayne at Boston left the Hawks and Pistons tied for second place. In the other half of the Boston doubleheader the Celtics defeated New York 102-100 to shove the Knicks 2½ games back of the Philadelphia Warriors, Eastern division leaders.

Easy Ed Macauley's one-hand push shot from 12 feet out with six seconds remaining gave the Cetlics their narrow victory over the Knicks. A 27-point third period carried the Celtics into an 80-76 lead, but the Knicks fought back and tied the score at 100-all on Gene Shue's goal with 25 seconds to go.

Ulster LLers Plan Meeting

Town of Ulster Little League meets tonight at 8 o'clock at Lipton's Bus Terminal to discuss territorial boundaries for its first season in 1956.

Efforts will be made to sign an agreement with the East Kingston-Glasco LL to define territorial rights.

A fourth sponsor for the Ulster circuit will be D-D's Drive-In, operated by Louis Di Dona.

Big Klu Gazelle At First

Ted Kluszewski

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Ted Kluszewski didn't figure to set any fielding records when he started his major league career with Cincinnati eight years ago.

The Redlegs' slugger wasn't—and isn't—any gazelle around the first base bag.

Today, however, 'Klu' is the owner of a shiny new major league mark for first baseman, having led at his position for the fifth straight season.

The official National League averages for 1955 disclosed yesterday that Kluszewski made only 8 errors while handling 1482 chances for a .995 slate. Ted has led every season since 1951.

ROUNDING OUT the "all fielding" infield were Willie Jones of Philadelphia, Red Schoendienst of St. Louis and Ernie Banks of Chicago.

Jones headed the third basemen for the third straight year with .960. Schoendienst topped the second basemen for the fourth time with a .985 while Banks was the best fielding shortstop with .972.

Eddie Miksis, a converted infielder, was the leading defensive outfielder with .9891, edging Brooklyn's Duke Snider, who finished with .9889.

The best fielding "battery" was Andy Seminick of Philadelphia and Art Fowler of Cincinnati. The veteran Seminick paced the catchers with .994 while Fowler led the pitchers with a perfect 1.000 while handling 42 chances.

The first southpaw to win the American Bowling Congress tournament singles title was Marshall Levey of St. Louis. He tied with a 624 series in 1907 at St. Louis then won the rolloff.

Three Easy Victories

Trinity, Redeemers, First Dutch Get Wins

Scoring 22 points apiece, Simmons and Nagele emerged the two top scorers in this week's activity of the Protestant Church league sponsored by the YMCA.

Trinity Lutheran defeated First Dutch, 54-43, Redeemer Lutheran swamped Fair Street Reformed, 53-37, and St. Mark's AME thumped Clinton Avenue Methodist, 67-32.

High scorer for Redeemer was Phil Hendricks' 19. Taylor netted 20 for St. Mark's along with Childs. Miller's 14 paced the First Dutch attack.

Little Three Fives Go Under

(By The Associated Press) ..

Faces of western New York basketball fans were glum today. Each of the area's Little Three teams went down to defeat last night.

But there was anything but sadness across the state where little Siena college humbled the mighty Cadets of Army 77-67.

Syracuse, the only member of the upstate Big Three active last night, defeated Niagara of the Little Three 84-71 on Niagara's home court. St. Bonaventure suffered its first setback in three starts as undefeated St. Francis edged it out 79-77 at Brooklyn. Canisius continued its western swing by falling before Washington 68-63 at St. Louis.

Other results involving upstate teams: Hamilton 84, Union 61; Hartwick 78, Kings (Pa.) 60; Vermont 87, Clarkson 79; Alfred 73, St. Lawrence 57; Buffalo 66, Buffalo Teachers 46; Hobart 94, Utica 68; Potsdam Teachers 74, Paul Smiths 64; Roberts Wesleyan 87, Geneseo Teachers 75; Brockport Teachers 79, Fredonia Teachers 52.

Royals Stretch Western Lead; Knicks Beaten

(By The Associated Press)

The scramble in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn., which has been a dog-eat-dog affair almost from the start of the season, is rapidly deveioping into a one-team affair.

The lightly regarded Rochester Royals took a 1½-game lead last night as they defeated the St. Louis Hawks, one-time leader, 117-109 at Pittsburgh.

MINNEAPOLIS' 98-95 triumph over Fort Wayne at Boston left the Hawks and Pistons tied for second place. In the other half of the Boston doubleheader the Celtics defeated New York 102-100 to shove the Knicks 2½ games back of the Philadelphia Warriors, Eastern division leaders.

Easy Ed Macauley's one-hand push shot from 12 feet out with six seconds remaining gave the Cetlics their narrow victory over the Knicks. A 27-point third period carried the Celtics into an 80-76 lead, but the Knicks fought back and tied the score at 100-all on Gene Shue's goal with 25 seconds to go.

Ulster LLers Plan Meeting

Town of Ulster Little League meets tonight at 8 o'clock at Lipton's Bus Terminal to discuss territorial boundaries for its first season in 1956.

Efforts will be made to sign an agreement with the East Kingston-Glasco LL to define territorial rights.

A fourth sponsor for the Ulster circuit will be D-D's Drive-In, operated by Louis Di Dona.

Big Klu Gazelle At First

Ted Kluszewski

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Ted Kluszewski didn't figure to set any fielding records when he started his major league career with Cincinnati eight years ago.

The Redlegs' slugger wasn't—and isn't—any gazelle around the first base bag.

Today, however, 'Klu' is the owner of a shiny new major league mark for first baseman, having led at his position for the fifth straight season.

The official National League averages for 1955 disclosed yesterday that Kluszewski made only 8 errors while handling 1482 chances for a .995 slate. Ted has led every season since 1951.

ROUNDING OUT the "all fielding" infield were Willie Jones of Philadelphia, Red Schoendienst of St. Louis and Ernie Banks of Chicago.

Jones headed the third basemen for the third straight year with .960. Schoendienst topped the second basemen for the fourth time with a .985 while Banks was the best fielding shortstop with .972.

Eddie Miksis, a converted infielder, was the leading defensive outfielder with .9891, edging Brooklyn's Duke Snider, who finished with .9889.

The best fielding "battery" was Andy Seminick of Philadelphia and Art Fowler of Cincinnati. The veteran Seminick paced the catchers with .994 while Fowler led the pitchers with a perfect 1.000 while handling 42 chances.

The first southpaw to win the American Bowling Congress tournament singles title was Marshall Levey of St. Louis. He tied with a 624 series in 1907 at St. Louis then won the rolloff.

Little Three Fives Go Under

(By The Associated Press)

Faces of western New York basketball fans were glum today. Each of the area's Little Three teams went down to defeat last night.

But there was anything but sadness across the state where little Siena college humbled the mighty Cadets of Army 77-67.

Syracuse, the only member of the upstate Big Three active last night, defeated Niagara of the Little Three 84-71 on Niagara's home court. St. Bonaventure suffered its first setback in three starts as undefeated St. Francis edged it out 79-77 at Brooklyn. Canisius continued its western swing by falling before Washington 68-63 at St. Louis.

Other results involving upstate teams: Hamilton 84, Union 61; Hartwick 78, Kings (Pa.) 60; Vermont 87, Clarkson 79; Alfred 73, St. Lawrence 57; Buffalo 66, Buffalo Teachers 46; Hobart 94, Utica 68; Potsdam Teachers 74, Paul Smiths 64; Roberts Wesleyan 87, Geneseo Teachers 75; Brockport Teachers 79, Fredonia Teachers 52.

Players Plan Drastic Move if Club Owners Reject New Proposals

Feller, Roberts Refuse To Divulge Reply

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Major league player representatives Bob Feller and Robin Roberts, together with their attorney, J. Norman Lewis, were scheduled to take their case to Commissioner Ford Frick today after refusing to accept the club owners' rejection of their proposals.

At a meeting of the 16 club representatives in Lewis' office yesterday, the players unanimously decided that they could not go along with the rejection by the owners of "certain proposals" which the players had previously submitted to the magnates. At their annual winter meeting in Chicago last week, the magnates flatly turned down all the players' important suggestions.

THE PLAYERS were particularly incensed over the failure to the owners to permit them to have representation during negotiations for a new contract affecting television of the World Series and All-Star game. The players also deplored the owners' refusal to increase the minimum salary from the current $6,000 to $7,200.

These two proposals will be re-submitted for consideration when the owners convene again Feb. 4.

Asked what the players might do if they encountered further refusal, Feller and Roberts declined to speculate.

"THE INDICATION," said Feller, the Cleveland Indians' veteran righthander, "is that the players might take stern steps if the owners reject them at this time."

Feller did not explain what he meant by "stern steps," but Roberts, the Philadelphia Phillies' great righthander, said:

"We probably will have a statement to make after the owners' Feb. 4 meeting." Then he added quickly, almost under his breath: "We hope we don't have to."

TIPS FOR FINDING DOWNED GAME

DOWNED UPLAND GAME IS OFTEN DIFFICULT TO FIND IF YOU DON'T HAVE A GOOD DOG. SO, IT IS WISE TO MARK SPOT WHERE GAME FELL WITH YOUR HANDKERCHIEF, HAT OR CAP. IT IS EASY TO RENEW SEARCH FROM ORIGINAL SPOT AFTER WANDERING AWAY. UNLESS DEAD, GAME MAY CRAWL OFF, SO MAKE WIDENING CIRCLES OUT FROM MARKER.

Father's Day was founded by Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, Spokane, Washington, in 1910.

Report $850,000 Bid for Nashua

Chicago, Dec. 15 (AP)—A bid of $850,000 for Nashua has been made by a Chicago horsewoman, "The Chicago American" reported today.

She is Mrs. Titus Haffa, president of a company which manufactures portable electric appliances. Mrs. Haffa last summer had a $100 bet on a horse, My Red Geflin, which scored a record mutuel of $282 at Arlington Park. She won $14,100.

The Woodward estate was expected to anounce the highest bidder at 4 p. m. today.

Brooks' Tickets Sell in Jersey

Jersey City, Dec. 14 (AP)—In three days the Brooklyn Dodgers have received orders for nearly $20,000 worth of tickets for the eight games they will play in Jersey City next season. But the tickets won't be available for the customers before Feb. 1.

The Dodgers began accepting mail orders for strips of eight box seats at $3 each and grandstand seats at $2 on Monday.

Players Plan Drastic Move if Club Owners Reject New Proposals

Feller, Roberts Refuse To Divulge Reply

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Major league player representatives Bob Feller and Robin Roberts, together with their attorney, J. Norman Lewis, were scheduled to take their case to Commissioner Ford Frick today after refusing to accept the club owners' rejection of their proposals.

At a meeting of the 16 club representatives in Lewis' office yesterday, the players unanimously decided that they could not go along with the rejection by the owners of "certain proposals" which the players had previously submitted to the magnates. At their annual winter meeting in Chicago last week, the magnates flatly turned down all the players' important suggestions.

THE PLAYERS were particularly incensed over the failure to the owners to permit them to have representation during negotiations for a new contract affecting television of the World Series and All-Star game. The players also deplored the owners' refusal to increase the minimum salary from the current $6,000 to $7,200.

These two proposals will be re-submitted for consideration when the owners convene again Feb. 4.

Asked what the players might do if they encountered further refusal, Feller and Roberts declined to speculate.

"THE INDICATION," said Feller, the Cleveland Indians' veteran righthander, "is that the players might take stern steps if the owners reject them at this time."

Feller did not explain what he meant by "stern steps," but Roberts, the Philadelphia Phillies' great righthander, said:

"We probably will have a statement to make after the owners' Feb. 4 meeting." Then he added quickly, almost under his breath: "We hope we don't have to."

Yale Wins, 5-4

New Haven, Dec. 15 (AP)—John Akers scored a goal in overtime last night to give Yale a 5-4 hockey victory over Rensselaer Polytechnic. Tiny Gary Kearns led the visitors with three goals to keep them tied after three periods. The deciding goal was at 7:04 of the overtime period.

Chicago, Dec. 14 (AP)—Tom Hennessey of Detroit and Phyllis Notaro, of Angola, N. Y., took over the leads in the National All-Star Bowling tournament today as the 46 men and 46 women semi-finalists prepared for their final blocks.

Miss Notaro, who is making her third straight all-star appearance, stunned the crowd in the Chicago Stadium by rolling the second highest four-game total on record as she took over the lead with a sparkling 876 series.

THE 27-YEAR-OLD New Yorker now has a total of 3,822 pins for 20 games. She rolled games of 227, 201, 212 and 236 to post the 876. The highest total ever rolled was 987 by Connie Powers of Detroit in 1951.

Tailing Miss Notaro was Doloes Wroblewski, of Detroit, with 3,815, just seven pins behind Phyl's 3,882. Miss Wroblewski paced the women in first four days. In third place was Connie Powers, of Detroit, with 3,814. Connie had the second high series for women today with 827.

Hennessey, 30, took over the lead by eight pins fom Ed Lubanski, 6,261 to 6,253. Tom had 1,217 today as Lubanski fell to 1,148 for his lowest series of the tournament to date.

IN THIRD place was the 1950-'51 champion. Dick Hoover of Akron, O., who had 6,250.

In the special matches involving the former champions, Ms. Ladewig increased her lead over defending champion, Miss Wene, to 194 pins as she won the first block today, 825 to 750. Marion now has 4,007 pins while Sylvia has 3,813.

In the men's division, Carter finally got started against Nagy. Carter won today's first block 1,237 to 1,077, and now trails Nagy by only 50 pins, 5,955-6,005.

Texas was named by Captain de Leon. Spain sent him, in 1690, to found a mission and he named the country Texas from the Comanche Indian term "tejas," which meant "friends."

May Sign CD Pact

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—New York state and Ontario Civil Defense officials hope to sign an agreement for mutual aid in case of an emergency. The agreement hinges on the passing of legislation to be submitted to the Ontario Parliament next month, officials said. The two groups concluded a two-day meeting here yesterday. Lt. Gen. C. R. Lincoln Park Inn increased its lead to six games in the Ulster County Tavern Shuffleboard League last week.

The Lincolns took eight of 10 games from the Delaware Avenue Tavern as Bud Rappleyea scored 28 points. Walt Trowbridge scored 23 for the losers, getting 20 in a single game.

Two-game winners for Lincoln Park were the Rappleyea-John Carpenter, Ed McDavitt-Bill Schatzel and Ev Dailey-Art Hotaling combinations.

Hilltop Rest, the second place team, won six games from Boiceville Inn. Don Koeppen came out of "retirement" to score the day's largest total, 38 points. Koeppen had 22 in one game. Ollie Crawford had 22 for Boiceville. The Peter Fisher Jr.-Lou Aiello duo won two games for Hilltop, as did Harold Johnson with a pair of partners.

THE VILLAGE REST and Ruby Inn battled to a 5-5 tie. Chick Prendergast of V-R had 31 points, and teamed with Harold Williams to win two games. Danny Mack and Joe Fabysack also won two for the villagers. Cliff Nichols led Ruby Inn with 32 points. Nichols combined with Bill Miggins Sr. for two wins. Phyllis Notaro Leads Women

Chicago, Dec. 14 (AP)—Tom Hennessey of Detroit and Phyllis Notaro, of Angola, N. Y., took over the leads in the National All-Star Bowling tournament today as the 46 men and 46 women semi-finalists prepared for their final blocks.

Miss Notaro, who is making her third straight all-star appearance, stunned the crowd in the Chicago Stadium by rolling the second highest four-game total on record as she took over the lead with a sparkling 876 series.

THE 27-YEAR-OLD New Yorker now has a total of 3,822 pins for 20 games. She rolled games of 227, 201, 212 and 236 to post the 876. The highest total ever rolled was 987 by Connie Powers of Detroit in 1951.

Tailing Miss Notaro was Doloes Wroblewski, of Detroit, with 3,815, just seven pins behind Phyl's 3,882. Miss Wroblewski paced the women in first four days. In third place was Connie Powers, of Detroit, with 3,814. Connie had the second high series for women today with 827.

Hennessey, 30, took over the lead by eight pins fom Ed Lubanski, 6,261 to 6,253. Tom had 1,217 today as Lubanski fell to 1,148 for his lowest series of the tournament to date.

IN THIRD place was the 1950-'51 champion, Dick Hoover of Akron, O., who had 6,250.

In the special matches involving the former champions, Ms. Ladewig increased her lead over defending champion, Miss Wene, to 194 pins as she won the first block today, 825 to 750. Marion now has 4,007 pins while Sylvia has 3,813.

In the men's division, Carter finally got started against Nagy. Carter won today's first block 1,237 to 1,077, and now trails Nagy by only 50 pins, 5,955-6,005.

Oldest House

The Fairbanks house at Dedham, Massachusetts, which was built in 1636, is said to be the oldest frame house still standing in the United States.

THROWBACK TO A BYGONE ERA—Scenes like this—showing horses frightened by an automobile—were common enough in the early 1900's, but they're pretty rare today. Matter of fact, dray horses themselves are rare. This picture was taken on Mackinac Island, Mich., where, except in emergency, no cars are permitted on the island. So when Buick decided to take its 1956 models there for advertising photos, special permission was necessary. The island's City Council required the cars to be towed through the city behind horse-drawn carriages instead of running under their own power. Despite the fact the cars were towed behind slow-moving wagons, this team of horses and another became frightened and ran away.

Clearest long-distance picture you've ever seen!

EYE CONDITIONED TV

Even in fringe areas you get better reception with the fine new Motorola TV. Aluminar tube for more brilliance and contrast. Magic Margin bezel which "spreads out" the picture. Eye-Shade filter which removes the glare. Exclusive Accurashade circuitry gives extra shades of blacks and whites for a deeper, more natural picture.

All this plus the strongest "working unit" ever put in a TV receiver—the Motorola Power Panel! For hours (and years) of comfortable viewing.

This week's feature! Modern 21-inch console shown in wood-grain Mahogany or Blond. Just push a button to turn it on. Glare-Down/Sound-Up design. Model 21K41.

Table TV in Charcoal, Blond or Bronze—beautiful enameled finish won't chip or mar. Rugged metal cabinet contains 5-star Power Panel and all the Eye-Conditioning features. Right-Up-Front Controls. Excellent reception in fringe areas. Model 21T26.
